P. T. A. CHIEF OFFICER IS GUEST HERE

Presidents, Mothers Congress and Associations Meet

ALL DAY SESSION

Mrs. M. P. Higgins Brings Inspiring Messages From Headquarters

Mrs. Milton P. Higgins, national president of the Mothers' Congress and Parent-Teacher Associations who was guest of honor at the conference of district P. T. A. presidents held in this city Tuesday, was the pivot around which the program revolved, and the inspiring messages she brought to the association members and school officials who gathered to greet and welcome her, showed that she was worthy the high office she holds.

The meeting opened at 10 a. m. in the auditorium of the First Methodist church with about 500 delegates in attendance and Mrs. H. R. Archbald, president of the district organization, presiding.

After prayer by Rev. Clyde Monroe Crist and a parliamentary drill conducted by Mrs. P. S. McNutt of this city, Mrs. Higgins was introduced by the presiding officer and said in part:

"You may be thankful you are a member of the Mothers' Congress and Parent-Teachers' association. Your opportunity is the greatest in the history of the world, for helping humanity. The mother stands in the relation of God to the baby. There are four elements in a baby's life—home, school, church, nation. It is up to the P.-T. A. to bring forth a generation during the ten years of peace who will cesire peace, who will vote for arbitration and not for war."

Mrs. Horn then presented to Mrs.

ALLEGED HIGHWAY BANDIT IS ARRESTED

W. R. Goulding Taken Into Custody on Complaint of Holdup

Charged with impersonating an officer and with highway robbery, W. R. Goulding, 127 South Belmont avenue, was yesterday afternoon arrested in Glendale and held for the arrival of Los Angeles police. He was arrested by Detective Sergeants Stein and Kincaid.

Goulding is charged by Mrs. Griffin of Los Angeles with representing himself as a Glendale police officer. He is said to have boarded an automobile in which Mrs. Griffin, her father-in-law and another lady were driving and said that they were unable to drive the car, so he would take them to their home in Los Angeles. He is alleged to have committed the robbery in Los Angeles in front of the Griffin home.

SHE WILL— MAYBE.

CHICAGO, April 5.—Mary Landon Baker reiterated today her intention of sailing for Europe to marry Allister McComrick, who she left waiting at the church last January on their scheduled wedding day. But society gossip declared she would never marry the millionaire. They pointed to the fact that on Mary's return from California, where she spent the last two months, she was met at the train by Marry Baxter, English actor. Baxter's name was mentioned in connection with Miss Baker's when she failed to keep the wedding date. Miss Baker also spent the afternoon and evening with Baxter, after escaping from the crowd of reporters.

REMEMBER BUNDLE DAY IS TOMORROW

Tomorrow is Near East Relief "bundle day."

Used clothes and shoes with warmth and wear in them are wanted at once. Householders are asked by the committee to search closets and make up bundles.

School yards are bundle stations. School children will take bundles to schools tomorrow.

Cash contributions with which to purchase foodstuffs for early forwarding to the Near East are being received by E. E. Osgood, treasurer N. E. R., First National Bank of Glendale.

For information call R. W. Mottern at Glendale 1513-W.

Donated autos for workers' use tomorrow are solicited by the committee.

World Owes Debt to Man Who Takes Chance Occasionally

Did it every strike you what a debt the world owes to the man who dares to take a chance?

That is the question that John Pilgrim asks in his column tonight on the editorial page.

Henry James speaks regarding the demand for a pardon for Mrs. Peete in his comment on the day's news and says that so far as the public has any knowledge of the circumstances there is not a shadow of ground for such pardon.

James W. Foley discusses money and the promise to pay and the discerning reader will discover that Mr. Foley gives some real sound philosophy in his article tonight.

Editorials of general interest and a discussion of the Irish question by Dr. Frank Crane are also worthy of consideration. The other usual features of the editorial page are also there for your attention.

ART EXHIBIT TO OPEN HERE ON APRIL 25

Ben Short Completes Arrangements for Chamber of Commerce

The committee headed by Ben Short of the Academy of Music, appointed by the board of directors of the chamber of commerce to make all arrangements for the exhibition in Glendale of the work of some of the best known sculptors in Los Angeles and Southern California, announced at the meeting of the board of directors yesterday that the dates for the exhibition had been definitely decided upon. The exhibit will be held in the auditorium of the Citizens building for four days, beginning April 25.

Mr. Short introduced to the directors Hal C. Swartz of Los Angeles, who is secretary of the Sculptors' Guild of Los Angeles, and who is cooperating with Mr. Short and the committee in securing the statuary for the exhibition in Glendale.

Proving that an exhibition such as is being planned for Glendale will be popular and has proven itself so, Mr. Swartz stated that when the plan to give a similar display of art in Los Angeles at Exposition park in the museum building was formulated, it was predicted that the attendance would be practically nothing. He said that during the 25 days of the exhibition an actual check of the attendance showed that there were 50,000 people in attendance.

Mr. Swartz said that for the exhibition in Glendale it would be impossible to secure all of the statues displayed in Los Angeles as there is not sufficient space. He assured the directors, however,

FACTORY PLANS ARE SUBMITTED

Pacific Implement Company Ask C. of C. Endorsement Here

Officials of the Pacific Implement and Machine company, who are planning to erect a factory here in Glendale, appeared before the board of directors yesterday and told of the progress being made by that company. Mr. Freline of the implement company acted as spokesman.

He said that financial arrangements have been almost completed for the consolidation of the plant already owned and operated by his company at Modesto, Calif., with another of similar nature operated in San Francisco. He said that when this consolidation is completed the Pacific Implement and Machine company will be the largest organization of its kind west of Chicago. He said that the present payroll of the company is approximately $4000.

Mr. Freline asked the chamber of commerce directors to give the company their endorsement in their proposal to build their factory in Glendale. He stated that they already hold options on property at Glendale avenue and San Fernando road. To show the chamber of commerce what the company already has in the way of a factory and what they will gain by consolidation with the San Francisco organization an offer was made and accepted to take a committee from the board of directors to San Francisco and Modesto for an inspection of the two plants. Secretary James M. Rhoades of the chamber of commerce was appointed a committee of one to make the trip.

BRITISH ASK FRENCH FOR PAYMENT

War Debt With Interest Practically Demanded in Note

$2,500,000,000 IS TOTAL

Indicated Extension Will Not Be Granted by English Government

PARIS, April 5.—The French government has received a note from England which is considered tantamount to a demand for immediate payment of the interest on France's debt to Britain of $2,500,000,000.

Marquis Curzon, British foreign minister indicated in his communication that England could not renew the three-year convention 1919, whereby France was permitted to postpone payment of interest due on war-time loans.

The whole question of interallied debts and of Europe's debts to America may be brought up in Genoa, it was said in French government circles today, as a result of this action by Britain.

France, it is authoritatively stated, will reply to England that it is impossible for her to consider payment of her debts apart from the whole problem of European debts, including those owed by Germany.

It is said here that Marquis Curzon pleaded America's pressing for payment of England's debt to the United States as a reason for not renewing the convention with France.

LONDON, April 5.—In view of French reports that England had virtually demanded payment by France of interest on her five hundred million pound debt to Great Britain, the United Press obtained the following authoritative statement today:

"The question of ending the convention whereby France was excused from paying interest on her debt to Britain is under consideration.

"Great Britain, in a note to France, has intimated that in view of Britain's obligations to pay 25,000,000 pounds interest to the United States in October, this country must seriously consider asking the allies to pay something of what they owe her."

GRAND VIEW MAIL PLAN TO BE REVIEWED

Jackson Pledges Cooperation in Efforts of Foothill Association

Delivery of mail to the Grand View district, reported upon by Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson to the postoffice department, will be reviewed by an inspector, according to a communication received by Dr. Jessie A. Russell from Mr. Jackson today. Mr. Jackson's recommendations are already in.

"I shall endeavor to have the matter expedited as much as possible," said Mr. Jackson.

The petition was presented to Mr. Jackson by the committee of the Foothill Improvement association of Glendale, of which Dr. Russell was chairman.

VALLEY MEETING BEST IN HISTORY

Los Angeles Neighbors Join in Bridge Campaign Planning

In spite of the rain and the fact that an attempt was made by the officers to postpone the meeting last night one of the most enthusiastic meetings in the history of the organization was held by the San Fernando Boulevard Improvement association at 806 South San Fernando road.

In addition to a large number of the regular members of the association there were 35 residents of Los Angeles, on the other side of the river present, who wanted to join with the association in securing a bridge across the river. These Los Angeles residents are forced to go two miles out of their way in getting to the business district of Los Angeles at present.

No other matter was discussed by the association last night save the plan to secure a bridge. Petitions are being circulated today in that section of Los Angeles affected by the need of a bridge and when signed will be presented to the Los Angeles city council.

This was one of the most enthusiastic meetings ever held by the organization.

Make Big Park Accessible To Those Living Nearest It

By JOHN H. GERRIE
Prosperity Editor Glendale Daily Press

Griffith Park is one of the beauty spots of Southern California. It was the wish of its generous donor that it be enjoyed by ALL THE PEOPLE. It was presented to Los Angeles as the custodian best equipped to maintain it for the people.

The kindly nature of its donor never intended that Griffith Park be reserved for the pleasure of a few, nor its scenic attractions be easily accessible only to residents of Los Angeles city. It was to be free to wander through and enjoy by all persons living around about or who might chance to travel that way.

John H. Gerrie

With one half climbing the Hollywood hills and the other half spreading out over the lower San Fernando valley to the Los Angeles river, the park affords mixed vistas of lowlands and highlands, unsurpassed in California. Along one side is the fast growing and PRACTICALLY PARKLESS city of Glendale and at short distances beyond lie Burbank, Lankershim and Van Nuys, the latter two within the city limits of Los Angeles but without any large parks of their own.

In accordance with the terms of its gift, Griffith Park is FREE TO ALL who come. Its golf course, one of the finest in the Los Angeles district, is played over by golfers from Long Beach, San Pedro and other coast communities, from Pasadena, Hollywood and other interior cities. Automobilists from all over the state, and some from beyond the state line, drive through and admire.

Griffith Park is NEAREST of any large public playground TO GLENDALE and Glendale is nearest of any community to Griffith Park. They are separated only by the Los Angeles river and a narrow strip of land between that and the Glendale city line. A bridge over the river, to all intents and purposes, would make Griffith Park a GLENDALE PARK.

Similarly, its location at the foot of the valley makes it the NATURAL PLAYGROUND for all the San Fernando valley. Burbank, Lankershim and Van Nuys see it always before them and the more remote towns of the district enjoy a sentimental FEELING OF OWNERSHIP toward it.

But, remarkable as it may appear to those who are not familiar with existing conditions, Griffith Park probably is less used and less known by residents of the San Fernando valley than by those of some of the more remote districts. Probably more residents of Long Beach, 30 miles distant, visit it for contemplation and picnicking and golf than do residents of Glendale, just across the narrow river. Enthusiasts from Riverside and Pomona and Santa Ana perhaps know it better than its neighbors in Burbank and Lankershim and Van Nuys.

There's a reason, of course. It's a peculiar reason and one that would seem far from justified by the wishes of the giver. Bluntly expressed, Griffith Park has TURNED ITS BACK upon its own valley.

The SINGLE ENTRANCE is from the south, at the point nearest Los Angeles, which is all right, of course, for a main entrance. If residents of the neighboring towns in the San Fernando valley desire to visit the park it is necessary for them to drive HALF WAY AROUND, skirting it for seven or eight miles, passing through Glendale en route, before reaching the southern and only entrance.

Under these circumstances Griffith Park is used and ENJOYED BUT LITTLE by those Californians living nearest to it. If the city of Los Angeles, in the SISTERLY SPIRIT of which it boasts, would establish entrances at the northern end for the convenience of Los Angeles citizens living in Lankershim and Van Nuys and along the western boundary, for the benefit of travelers at large, the FAME OF THE PARK would largely augment the fame of Los Angeles and the popularity of Southern California, besides furthering the wishes of the splendid donor that Griffith Park be enjoyed by ALL THE PEOPLE.

NEW ORGANIZATION TO HOLD MEETING

A meeting of the new organization of business men and property owners of the East Broadway and Glendale avenue business district will be held tomorrow noon at White Inn, corner Glendale avenue and Broadway. One of the celebrated White Inn luncheons will be served.

This session will be a very important one. Committees that were appointed at the well-attended meeting held last Tuesday will render their reports. These include committees on association name, Glendale avenue improvement, hotel, transportation and resolutions. Every one who is interested in the improvement of the eastern section of Glendale is invited to this luncheon.

LLOYD GEORGE FAILS

LONDON, April 5. — Lloyd George's intervention in the engineering crisis has been successful and employers have agreed to suspend lockout orders against 600,000 workers, it was officially announced today.

The British premier followed his triumph in the house of commons by bringing workers and operators together and preventing complete breakdown in the engineering trades. Negotiations will be resumed between union leaders and executives on Monday.

The suspension of the lockout order, which was announced after Lloyd George had conferred with union leaders and later with Sir Alan Smith, operators' spokesman, does not apply to three hundred thousand additional workers in engineering trades who have been locked out for three weeks since the first break down of negotiations.

DRUNKEN TRAMP IS ARRESTED

On complaint of Miss Alice Frank the Glendale police yesterday picked up a tramp who said that his name was Clyde Jones and that he lived at 227 North Main street, in Los Angeles.

Miss Frank telephoned to the police department yesterday afternoon saying that there was a man in front of her house and that she thought he was under the influnece of liquor. Patrolman McLean answered the call and found Jones lying in the gutter where he had found the load of liquor that he was carrying was too heavy for mortal man to carry and laid down to rest.

He was locked in the city bastile at fire house No. 1, pending an interview today with Police Judge F. H. Lowe.

MARRIAGE LURES MARY

SAN FRANCISCO, April 5.—Mary Garden, "director" of the Chicago Grand Opera company, is going to get married within a year. At least, that's what Mrs. Henry Thorsen, psychic, whom Mary visited, told her.

Mrs. Thorsen said she saw a dark man, a little older than Miss Garden, with the initials "M. L." cross Mary's path.

SPIES RANSACK MAIL

PARIS, April 5.— International spies last night robbed the mail train running from Paris to Laroche of 30 sacks of English mail bound for Italy, in an attempt to capture diplomatic correspondence relating to the Genoa economic conference.

EXPOSITION PASSED TO CREDIT MEN

Chamber of Commerce Decides Assn. Should Consider Plans

IS TRADE SUBJECT

Endorsement Asked by Local Merchants and by Outside Concern

The proposal for the chamber of commerce to put on an exposition similar to the Merchants' Trade Exposition sponsored by that organization last year was discussed by the board of directors yesterday at their meeting and luncheon and on motion of Roy L. Kent it was decided that the proposal be referred to the Glendale Credit association for promotion this year.

The proposal was put up to the directors by President Val Hollister, who recommended that this action be taken. He said that the exposition was manifestly a trade proposition that he felt that if the chamber of commerce should sponsor it the organization would be trespassing on the territory of the Credit association.

Mr. Hollister said that last year conditions were different. There was no business men's organization functioning in this city.

With the organization of the Credit association, however, he thought that all proposals such as the one affecting the exposition should be referred by the chamber of commerce to that organization.

The same action was taken on a petition from ten automobile dealers of the city who asked the board to endorse the proposal to give an automobile and accessory show in Glendale.

C. OF C. HEARS OF LIGHT AND POWER RATES

Supt. of City Plant Tells Members Something of Problems

The electric light and power rates charged by the city were explained to the chamber of commerce directors yesterday at their weekly meeting and luncheon by P. J. Diederich, superintendent of plant and production for the city of Glendale.

Mr. Diederich said in part that most all of the electric lines and equipment of the city is 11 years old and is wearing out. These lines and appliances must be replaced, as during the first years of the municipally owned electric plant everything was taken out of the lighting fund and nothing put in for repairs. He said that the extremely fast growth of the city made it absolutely necessary for the city to enlarge its light and power plants to keep up with the growth.

He said that at the time the city installed its own electric light and power plant the financial condition of the city was bad. Instead of it being possible to use the small profit that was being made by the department for repairs and installation it was taken out and the replacement neglected. The system has now reached a point where these replacements and repairs are imperative and the rates must be raised to do the work.

Mr. Diederich said that with the recent increase of rates the domestic rate charged by the city is lower than any other city in the county and lower than most cities of its size in the west. He admitted that in some places the commercial rate was higher than in other cities. He also said that if the light and power plant was operated by a private concern that the rates would be just as high and that street lighting would cost exactly twice as much as it does at present.

City Manager W. H. Reeves spoke for a few moments at the conclusion of the talk by Mr. Diederich and said that there are only two courses open to the city at present: to either raise the rate and do the work that is needed or to let the department run behind in the matter of finances and make it necessary to float bond issues for all improvements.

K. C. GOES DEMOCRATIC

KANSAS CITY, April 5.—Frank H. Cromwell, democratic candidate for mayor, carried an almost complete democratic ticket to victory yesterday. Cromwell's majority over Matt A. Foster, republican, was 13,000.

LIBERTY BOND RATES

WASHINGTON, April 5.—All liberty bonds soon will be selling at par or above for the first time since their issuance, treasury officials believe.

Babe-itis Alibi of Wife Who Fools Hubby

LOGANSPORT, Ind., April 5.—Helen Libby, who told her husband and the neighbors a pair of adopted twins were her own, was firmly entrenched in her husband's confidence today while Indiana and Illinois authorities investigated her past.

Dr. Charles Virden, Illinois welfare officer, and Logansport officers were searching for evidence to prove Mrs. Libby adopted illegitimate children before birth and received money from their parents.

The woman insists she procured the babies because of an overwhelming desire for more children of her own. She has a daughter from a former marriage and a two-year-old son, born since she married Jim Libby.

One day last summer Helen confided the great secret to Jim. Later, however, she discovered she was mistaken, according to her story. Jim was a traveling salesman for a Chicago firm and she saw an opportunity to spare him any disappointment. So she went to Chicago while Jim was on a long business trip and bought back the bouncing babies. Returning home, Jim was greeted with the child he had been expecting and another one for good measure.

An Illinois law prohibits any one from taking illegitimate children out of the state without sanction of the welfare officers. The babies were returned when the truth was learned, and Mrs. Libby, 41 years old, was locked in the jail here.

NEW MEMBERS ALIGN WITH C. OF C.

24 Business Men Are Approved by Board of Directors

The following candidates for membership in the chamber of commerce were voted on favorably yesterday at the meeting of the board of directors at their weekly meeting and luncheon:

Barker Bros., Inc., 724 South Broadway, home and office furnisher, (F. K. Colby, secretary); Chevrolet Dealer, 110 South Kenwood, Chevrolet Agency, (E. F. Tellier); Pearl A. Curran, 560 Riverdale drive, Musician-Pianist; R. J. East, 225 South Glendale avenue, all kinds of cement work; E. L. Fairbanks, P. O. Box 113, Glendale, Independent Lumber company; Glasgow Woolen Mills, 219 South Brand, merchant tailor, (I. Goldberg); Glendale Auto Wash Rack, 109 W. Wilson, simonizing, washing, greasing cars, (W. H. Miller); H. P. Goertz, 347 North Central, real estate; Gordon and Harrison, 102 North Glendale avenue, sand gravel and building materials, (Geo. W. McLoughlin, 443 West Wilson, wholesale opticians; J. R. Mitchell, 705 South Verduga road, goats' milk; S. C. Mustard, 616 West Myrtle, contractor and builder; A. F. Noir, 312 Lomita, general carpenter; Quality Toggery, 111 North Glendale, ladies' and men's furnishings, (William Sapir); Catherine Shank, 1500 South Figueroa, Los Angeles, teacher of singing; Howard W. Walker, 523 North Central, realty investments; Graham & Wilson, 1120 East Colorado, real estate and insurance, (E. H. R. Graham); Glendale Singer Sewing Machine shop, 108 South Maryland, sale and exchange of sewing machines, hemstitching, (J. S. Armstrong).

C. OF C. APPROVES DAYLIGHT SAVING

Members of the Board of Directors of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce yesterday voted to go on record as favoring the daylight saving plan. This vote was taken in line with a request from other chambers of commerce who have voted in favor of the plan.

City Manager W. H. Reeves who was present at the meeting and luncheon of the directors was asked for his opinion regarding this plan to set the clocks ahead during the summer months and said that he believes that the daylight saving plan is of no value as it is impossible to crowd more than two 24-hours into a day, no matter how hard you try. He said "by setting your clock ahead one hour you are just kidding yourself."

GLENDALE TO WAIT FOR L. A. SEWER

Advisory Committee Adjourns Until August Election

L. A. CONCILIATORY

Conditions Reported in Greater City Are More Imperative Than Here

The advisory sewer committee of the city council, learning that Los Angeles, in its plans for its outfall sewer, has made provision for a Glendale and San Fernando Valley connection, adjourned last night until after the bond issue was passed upon at the election in August in Los Angeles.

The adjournment was practically unanimous, and was based upon a complete change of attitude by representatives of the Los Angeles city council.

As represented by Councilman Ralph Criswell and W. B. Mathews attorney for the committee of public works of Los Angeles the greater city has realized the necessity, for the protection of Los Angeles, of provisions to keep the Los Angeles river water shed free from danger of contamination. To this end, while the councilmen expressed the hope and belief that Glendale would sooner or later come into Los Angeles under a consolidated city or a city and county government, annexation as the price of outfall sewer connection was no longer talked.

A long report and analysis of the Glendale sewage problem was submitted to the committee by Dr. William G. Mabry of 2104 West Broadway as chairman of the publicity committee of the committee.

Mr. Guthrie opposed publicity of the report until the members of the committee had read it and

CHIPS MAKES A STA RTLING STATEMENT

By JOHN BARTON
(Copyright, 1921, by Associated Newspapers)

"Who else do I mean? Well, who else did hang around the Ark after all the rest had gone beside the ones you've named?" Dr. Muskrat means the dogs, of course. But he knew by the hanging of the red dog's tail he was smelling out a joke.

And so he was. About Stripes Skunk's folks. They said they had as good a right to mice and milk as any cat who ever mewed, and they meant to stay and enjoy themselves. But Mister Noah didn't want them, for very special reasons. So he told the dogs to argue with them. And the dogs got the worst of the argument.

The skunks did go, for they said they wouldn't stay with any one who didn't appreciate them. But from that time forth dogs and skunks have mostly passed each other by without speaking. It's considered very bad manners to let on they even see each other.

Now the dog should have told that story. The Woodsfolk would have laughted at him, but they would have believed him. Only dogs are much too dignified. And, besides, the Woodsfolk were looking at him in such a queer way. He didn't quite understand them.

It was Chips Beaver who remarked: "I kind of wish my great - grandparents had been aboard the Ark. Then they'd have told us more about the beasts from that place with the funny name. We've heard of the elephant, because he was the biggest, and of the lion because the cats always brag about him, but I never heard tell of any giraffe. She sounds mighty strange."

"She was." The dog cocked up his ears again. "So were all the Africans, even the birds. Take the ostrich—he was so big he couldn't fly, and his legs were so strong he could knock a hyena endwise with one good kick when the thieving rascal came sneaking around. But the camel was really the queerest of them all—though I kind of disremember where she came from."

"What was she like?" Chips asked quietly.

"She was the ugliest creature on earth, scrawnier even than the giraffe. Her neck was as long, but it didn't reach up so tall, because she was hunch-backed. Yes, sir-ee, that's just what she was. She had a great big mountain of a hump between her shoulders and her tail. And, what's more, her mate had two of them. They lived in a sort of a deserty place, when they were at home, and ate thorns that made their lips so loppy and swollen they couldn't talk plain. They—"

And Besides, the Woodsfolk Were Looking at Him in Such a Queer Way

"Pal," Chips interrupted the red dog, "I hate to say it, but I don't believe more than half of what you've been telling—no, not more than a third of it."

'WHY MEN FAIL' IS TALK BY MAJOR MORGAN TONIGHT

Excellent Lecture at Los Angeles to Be Broadcasted

Radio telephone enthusiasts within 1000 miles of Los Angeles will have the privilege of listening to a famous war veteran and nationally famous lecturer tonight at 8:45.

Major William T. Morgan, staff lecturer for the International correspondence schools, will deliver one of his many educational talks entitled "Why Men Fail," tonight at Los Angeles.

The powerful radio telephone in the Kinema theater, in Los Angeles, will broadcast Major Morgan's talk. This inspirational lecture will be of wide interest, it is declared, and it is anticipated that all radio phones within the 1000 miles will be able to pick it up.

Major Morgan is on a tour of the United States and has been heard by many prominent clubs and other organizations in Southern California.

The call letters of the broadcasting station are KOG and transmission will be on a wave length of 360 meters.

Preceding the lecture the regular concert program will be given by the Western Radio Electric company, 637 South Hope street, Los Angeles, who operates the station.

St. Mark's Guild—St. Mark's Guild will hold their regular weekly meeting Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. A "pot luck" luncheon and hot coffee will be served at noon. There is plenty of patchwork and sewing to be done and everyone is cordially invited to come.

A Year Ago Today

From Glendale Daily Press for April 5, 1921

The newly elected officers of Glendale lodge No. 1289, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, were installed last night after a banquet at Casa Verdugo. Exalted Ruler Leo A. Stromee of the San Bernardino lodge was the installing officer.

The track team from the Intermediate school won a meet with the Pasadena Military Academy yesterday by the score of 42 to 39. It was one of the closest contests of the year for the local team.

The city is mourning today the death of Phillip Bullis, one of the oldest Glendale pioneers. Mr. Bullis, who at the time of his death was 81 years old, died yesterday. He had been a resident of the state since 1861. He moved to Glendale in 1880.

P. T. A. Officer Local Guest

Higgins a beautiful basket of flowers for which the recipient made graceful acknowledgements.

Reports by many presidents in the first district were then given, and more followed the luncheon which showed that splendid work had been done in all parts of the county, none excelling, however, the report of the Glendale federation as presented by its president, Mrs. John Robert White.

That the hopes of committees having the conference in charge that there might be a large attendance were fully realized was demonstrated when the audience adjourned for luncheon served by ladies of the Methodist church in the banquet hall below. Reservations for 400 proved quite inadequate and tables had to be set twice, many local presidents surrendering their seats to out-of-town delegates and going to the school cafeteria at the Intermediate for luncheon.

In the program of after dinner speeches at which Mrs. Archbald presided as toastmistress, Mayor Spencer Robinson responded to call and in one of the amusing little characteristic speeches that only he can make, extended the greetings of the city to the assembled delegates and their honored guest, Mrs. Higgins.

Mrs. Hamilton of Pasadena, national vice-president, presented the greetings of the district to Mrs. Higgins and gave a brief outline of the growth and activities of the district organization since its beginning ten years ago.

The next to greet and welcome Mrs. Higgins was Mark Keppel, county superintendent of schools, on behalf of the county board of education.

He expressed his pleasure in looking at "the real heads of Los Angeles county" which caused a ripple of laughter. Said he: "Only those who are looking on from a distance can appreciate the service you are rendering. It is a farcry from the time when this organization began to this present time.

"If you study the laws in this or any other countries you will discover they do not take much account of the children, but, there has been a great change and the rapidity of the change has been coincident with the rapidity of the growth of the parent-teacher associations in America."

He mentioned the school cafeterias started by the P.-T. A.'s because the law makes no provision for them as a part of the school system and predicted that the time would come when the P. T. A.'s would demand and secure a revision of the laws of the state to insure the welfare of childhood, both as to food and clothing.

The 16th amendment to relieve the poverty of rural schools by increasing the allotment of state funds and thus giving children in all parts of the state an equal chance, would never be carried, he declared, but for the support of the California Parent-Teacher associations. In closing he said:

"The great things you have done for the childhood of America have been done for the manhood of the future. But there is a wonderful and glorious field yet to be entered and occupied by you as the great leaders of a great host. We are glad to see this little group here, and we say 'little' because we know there are 10,000 more members at home just as good as these." (Laughter and applause).

In the absence of Mrs. Gray, who was to have presented the greetings of the state, Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson of Glendale, state chairman of the home department, was called upon and responded with felicitous words in which she voiced the pleasant anticipation raised by the prospect of Mrs. Higgins' coming and expressed the hope her visit would be pleasant and her reward great.

As president of the Southern California Teachers' association Mr. Bush brought greetings from 8000 fellow members. Said he: "We recognize and appreciate the work that is being done by the P.-T. A. and there is no distrust in the minds of the teachers, no fear that they are going to try to run the internal departments of the school. This is due in great measure to the wise, efficient direction of the officers of the associations.

As the founder of the Glendale Mutual Benefit Reading Circle, closely affiliated with the Parent-Teacher Associations, the inspiration of similar organizations in other parts of the country, Mrs. Chas. H. Toll of Glendale was next introduced and greeted with a round of applause. After conveying the greetings of the circle she said: "We are proud and happy to acknowledge the National Congress of Mothers as the founder of our little family. The national bureau of education at Washington we would designate as the father, and the Glendale P.-T. A. as the mother. While its membership includes women of all ages, with and without children, its best work is done for the young, inexperienced mother in giving her fundamental truths which shall prevent so many of the mistakes which cannot later be easily corrected. She is getting help at the time when her children are at the most impressionable age. The work of training mothers for their vocation should be paramount in the minds of all thinking people. If mothers were prepared to meet the problems which arise in their families, I am sure that crime waves would be much less than they are at present. The Reading Circle is helping to build the structure which shall be worthy to house the divine that is in your little children."

In responding to the gracious introduction of Mrs. Archbald, Mrs. Higgins expressed her appreciation of the many beautiful greetings and her feeling of entirely inadequacy to respond "were it not for your own dear selves, because you are the national congress, I am your servant, here to do your bidding."

She then spoke of the indebtedness of the present generation to its forefathers for the firm foundations they laid. Said she: "Washington lived, but his duty, died. Can we measure Washington's work? But let America be disloyal and what becomes of Washington? Let America go back on the principles of her founders and what is the use of celebrating the Fourth of July?

"We are to take the principles of the founders of this American republic and perfect them. How? By our action today; an advance action, and not action alone. Today it is not so much what we do as what we are that is important.

"Consider the disabilities our forefathers suffered in their isolations. Now the world is coming together. Today the news from Europe gets here before it starts—in point of time. Our Master said: 'Go ye into all the world' and it is the work of the Master we are to make perfect.

"We want to get away from the rule of gold and get the golden rule instead. At Washington we said, 'we will scrap the battleships.' The message of peace is in the atmosphere and that message is given to the men of good will. Have we good will enough to secure peace?

"When the National Council of Women from 25 nations came together in Europe they said: 'We wish we could have the freedom women have in America.' Let us use our freedom and liberty rightly. Let us remember that obedience to law is liberty.

"Future generations are looking to you, to me, the parents, the ecucators to make public sentiment. Make it so strong that they shall say, 'We are going to reach every home in the nation and make it a better, purer, truer home so that children shall have the start they should physically, mentally, morally and spiritually."

At the conclusion of Mrs. Higgins' address, an adjournment was taken to the auditorium above where the program of the afternoon was given.

After adjourning to the church auditorium, the first speaker there was Mrs. C. C. Noble, national chairman of membership. In introducing this speaker, Mrs. Archibald stated that the program would not be complete without a greeting from her.

Mrs. Noble stated that Glendale should be proud of the splendid work done here. She has been state chairman of membership since 1907 and national chairman of membership since 1911 so has had a great deal to do in that line of work. The speaker stated that it was the co-operation from the state board of education and local boards and teachers that had helped to make the association what it is. According to Mrs. Noble, the P.-T. A. is an auxiliary to the board of education and they should work together for the best interests of the children.

Another interesting speaker was then introduced, Mr. Nellus of the Whittier State School. He spoke of the boys who have been placed in this school, and said that 95 per cent of the boys in the state school were from the public schools. 'Why not meet their need?" said he. "It is an obligation to see that the child has a home and an opportunity for an education. We must remember that the chief asset of the state is the child. Every child should have a home to go to after school hours and if they have none, the school should provide one."

After this most interesting talk, reports of several associations were read by the presidents. They were from San Antonio, Eagle Rock, Pemple, near El Monte, Aconda, Bassett and Redondo Beach.

The next number on the program was the contribution of the members of the Alhambra P.-T. A., a song written to the National Congress of Mothers and to the National P.-T. A. The song was written by a blind musician, Allen Spurr, and the verse was sung by Miss Georgia Shropshire, instructor of music in the Alhambra high school and the members of the organization joined in the chorus, Mr. Spurr playing the piano accompaniment.

The melody was a catchy one and the words of the chorus were as follows:

"The P. T. A., the P. T. A.,
United now we stand,
And we pledge our might
For the cause of right,
For the children of our native land.

So we, you see—
These letters three
Remember what they say.
'We will pull together always'
is the motto of the P. T. A."

Mr. Spurr stated stated that his love of humanity prompted him to write this song and he hoped that it would stir the heart of every P. T. A. member.

The National first vice-president, Mrs. David O. Mears, was then introduced. Mrs. Mears was a member of the first convention of P.-T. A. held at Washington, D. C., 25 years ago and the audience appreciated their having her before them. The told something of this first convention and how the work had advanced through the year. She also expressed her appreciation of the wonderful work done in the past and now being done by the P.-T. A. organizations. February 17, 1922, marked the 25th birthday of the national organization. At this convention, Mrs. Mears stated(Mrs. Grover Cleveland entertained with a reception as a welcome to the mothers of the nation.

Mrs. Mears had with her one of the programs used at this national convention. Her splendid talk was ended with the declaration: "And a little child shall lead them." On behalf of the convention, Mrs. Mears was presented with a large bouquet of beautiful pink and white carnations and ferns.

Mrs. Higgins, national president, then took the platform and described some of her interesting experiences, in Washington, D. C. She told of how, during the war, the organization purchased a large house and every night took care of 300 soldiers who had nowhere to go as every hotel room in the city of Washington was taken. This they did throughout the entire war and mothered these boys. Later they sold the house and took offices in the building of the national education association.

She told how the Child Welfare Magazine had improved, and of what they were trying to incorporate in this magazine to make it beneficial to the mothers of the land "In order to have child welfare we must have unity of thought and unification of effort. In otner words, co-operation is the keynote."

Mrs. Higgins had the honor of meeting with four other ladies, President Harding and in shaking hands with him told him "the children of this generation are asking you to do all that you can possibly do to bring about peace." In answering, President Harding said, "I will try my best."

In closing, Mrs. Higgins urged the fathers, as well as the mothers to co-ouperate with the teachers in every way possible, for after all, they have the hardest task. They are with the children more than the parents themselves and their actions and education depend upon the teachers. For that reason, they need the help of the parents."

Mrs. Higgins was presented, at the close of her talk, with a large basket of red tulips.

To Wait for L. A. Sewer

passed upon it. Chas. Windham joined Mr. Guthrie in his opposition, explaining that after the reading of the report by Dr. Mabry they would like to have an opportunity of studying the matter it contained.

"It is only fair that the committee should do this, out of justice to the council," Mr. Guthrie explained. "I may approve of everything in the report. I think we should all have copies and be prepared to vote at the next meeting."

Following the adjournment, however, the committee approved of a suggestion by Mrs. Tight that he print the report under his own signature for the information of the public.

"Certainly this committee has nothing to do with what Dr. Mabry does under his own signature," said Mr. Guthrie smilingly; "all I wanted to do was to see that the committee studied it before issuing it from the commtitee."

In the discussion, after the adjournment Stephen W. Huntington of Kenneth road, formerly of New Rochelle, N. Y., created intense interest with a few remarks upon the rectifying plant used at New Rochelle, N. Y., for twenty years, and still in use.

He said that it was located within a stone's throw of good, but not the best residential district and had not given any offense. He said if such a plant were put in the vicinity of his own home in Glendale, he would not be disturbed.

"I should buy there, just the same," he said answering Mr. Guthrie's query. "There is no reason why I should not. Only one Italian in the New Rochelle plant smells the odor in one room. That is all there is to it."

W. E. Hewitt, chairman of the committee opened the meeting and in a clear statement of conditions said that the citizens were now spending $75,000 a year for cesspools and the like. In ten years when the city would be 100,000 this would amount to $750,000.

Los Angeles City Engineer Mulholland failing to appear, Mr. W. B. Mathews, counsel for the Los Angeles committee on public work was introduced.

Discouraging the idea of any temporary sewage disposal system in Glendale, Mr. Mathews said that Los Angeles must protect the water supply, which, contrary to general opinion, it drew largely from the Los Angeles river area and not from the Owens river.

With this idea in view the plans for the proposed outfall sewer for the outlying districts had been drawn. To protect itself Los Angeles must admit these communities to the Los Angeles outfall on any fair basis. The city, he felt, would actively oppose any system in Glendale that would tend to contaminate the Los Angeles water supply.

The outfall sewer head would be at Dayton avenue and be available for connection with Los Angeles and Burbank.

Following Mr. Mathews, Mr. Criswell told of the coming bond issue election in Los Angeles in August. He described the peril of Los Angeles because of the extensive building and the outgrowing of the sewer conditions, the failure of the bonds at the last election and the possible danger of a second defeat.

"I will say that the plans called for a main trunk sewer running to Dayton avenue with capacity to care for all the sewage of Los Angeles, the San Fernando Valley, Burbank and Glendale," he said.

"We expect you to come into the city and we have attempted to have service ready," he said "Whether it will be in a city and county government or a consolidation it does not matter."

He outlined conditions facing the city of Los Angeles, which were much worse than in Glendale.

"If you have any friends in Los Angeles," he pleaded, "for God's sake make them vote for the sewer bonds."

He opposed all temporary measures and urged the committee to wait for the Los Angeles outfall.

He declared that the matter of allowing Glendale to use the outfall sewer without annexation had never been discussed at the Los Angeles council, in his hearing. He did not know the plans called for the outfall to reach Dayton avenue for the use of Glendale.

He could not tell when the sewer would be available, should the bonds be voted. Frank Olmstead answering a query, suggested that four years must pass before it would be completed.

Mr. Mathews thought the bonds could be readily absorbed. There would be no possibility of holding them up, he thought.

Mr. Olmstead suggested the institution of sewage storage tanks in Los Angeles and Glendale, to take the peak load for delivery to the sewer during the midnight hours of low flow.

Mr. Criswell declared that he would never vote for the squandering of $100,000 in that manner and the ruining of an residential district by such storage.

"If that is contempt of court," he declared, "let them come and get it."

Mr. Mathews was asked pointblank if Los Angeles would oppose any different sewer system in Glendale than an outfall sewer connection, if the different system were endorsed by the state board of health.

Mr. Mathews replied that the state board of health had little to do with it as an additional factor. He indicated that Los Angeles would protect its water supply at any cost. He did not believe it would take four years to complete the sewer. He had not much faith in sludge systems of disposal.

Mr. Criswell reiterated under questions that Los Angeles was prepared to do the fair and square thing by Glendale.

Dr. Mabry asked if raw sewage in cesspools was not a greater menace to the Los Angeles water supply than a rectifying plant. Mr. Criswell replied that the difference was mainly psychological. People did not think of cesspools. They would think of such plants when they saw them. Mr. Woodberry brought out that there were septic tank systems in Los Angeles. These were explained as small isolated plants. Criswell did not know how they were working. The council only hears kicks, he said. He reiterated that he hoped for a favorable arrangement with Glendale for the use of the outfall.

In the regular meeting that followed the departure of the Los Angeles representatives, Charles H. Windham called attention that the committe was to consider permanent sewer systems, according to the instruction by the council. He did not believe the committee had a right to take up any temporary plans, without instruction of the council.

Dr. Mabry read his report, a treatise on sewer disposal, and the discussion followed, during which Mr. Guthrie endorsed the attitude of Mr. Windham regarding the authorization of the committee. He did not believe any temporary measures were required in Glendale. He said the Los Angeles men had told Glendale where to head in. The city should get more by cooperating with Los Angeles than by fighting that city. If Los Angeles felt that it was in danger, he said, it would tie Glendale up in litigation.

He thought Los Angeles had changed its attitude and would not attempt to force annexation. Mr. Woodberry thought the Los Angeles men were more or less wandering themselves and did not know where to go for relief. He thought the present Los Angeles city council and the citizens there were at odds. If the sewer bonds were voted, of course Glendale was taken care of. He thought the Glendale city council should have attended the meeting to instruct the committee the way it should go.

City Manager Reeves explained he believed the council was absent because it did not wish to seem to influence the committee in its work.

Chairman Hewitt said it was a fifty-fifty bet that the Los Angeles sewer bonds would be turned down again. He wanted to know what Glendale could do in that event.

After further discussion, the move to adjourn until the Los Angeles bond issue was voted upon in August was passed.

The analysis of the local sewer situation by Dr. Mabry follows. It is given only as his personal observation and study:

In discussing this serious problem which at the present is engaging the earnest consideration of many thoughtful citizens, it may be that certain basic facts taken for granted by practically all the community can be disposed of as a preliminary.

First: Glendale must sooner or later have a method of sewage disposal.

Second: Glendale must pay for whatever system is decided upon.

Third: Glendale desires the most efficient method obtainable and at the minimum of cost and inconvenience feasible with efficiency.

Likewise there are certain basic principles which govern sewage problems and probably can also be taken for granted by all, namely:

First: Sewage disposal cannot be absolutely free from objectionable features.

Second: Sewage disposal cannot be made to pay for itself.

Third: Sewage cannot be handled, treated or pumped without increased cost—each additional process involved rapidly and excessively piles up "costs," i. e. taxes.

Still further items are considered "basic" from the standpoint of sanitation and public policy as exemplified by the familiar phrase "greatest good for the greatest number." There are

First: Untreated sewage cannot be disposed of—yet sewage must be disposed of.

Second: It follows that end products—water and solids—regardless of methods utilized and of disposition, must be made practically harmless and unobjectionable.

Third: Sewage disposal by any means must result in loss and discomfort to some individuals—a few must suffer more or less for the sake of the entire community.

The perusal of this array of basic facts might cause one to consider the problem of sewage disposal difficult, but in reality their frank and judicial acceptance reduces the solution to two factors, i. e., finance and sanitary engineering, the latter being of first importance.

Considering our problem, then, upon the basis of sanitary engineering, what solutions can be offered?

At present the major part of Glendale is sewaged by the elemantary principle of cesspools, but one step about the primitive methods of centuries ago. Primitive methods lasted thousands of years and the human race persisted. Cesspools might last as long, generally speaking, but in communities cannot endure longer than space available remains and should not be utilized even that period in city life except as makeshifts to cover emergencies or the construction period of a more progressive plan.

Some things can be said in favor of cesspools. Comparatively moderate first cost, upkeep and generally satisfactory operation in sparsely settled tracts. Probably they are reasonably satisfactory from the standpoint of health. Bacterial pollution from cesspools, as a rule, does not travel far. Water percolating through two hundred feet of sand is essentially safe, and through a thousand feet of almost any moderately compact soil equally so. However, if seepage from cesspools enters an underground water channel, unfiltered bacterial pollution may travel almost indefinite distances. It is also true that cesspools and wells cannot exist together with safety to users of water from the wells. This objection does not apply particularly to our own problem, but is a decided factor in the safety of a water supply drawn from our drainage area and applies to certain districts in Los Angeles. Before the recent installation of the sewage system for Verdugo canon this same situation was a very grave menace to all of Glendale and we may feel thankful that we escaped serious epidemics and that the menace is removed.

On the other hand, a cesspool, however well built, is very likely to cave in in wet weather and unless grease traps are installed, the filtering walls of the cesspool rapidly clog, the holes fill up, cannot be repaired, and must be replaced, usually during a more or less prolonged period of nuisance to everybody in a wide area.

The next step higher in the scientific disposal of sewage is the septic tank. This method consists of collecting sewage in a two-compartment tank, the sewage entering at the floor and remaining in the first "air tight" compartment for a certain time, long enough for the non-liquid portions to float and form a "scum" in which bacteria which work only in the absence of air change the solids to liquids or solutions, which then pass through an inverted U tube to the second air-vented compartment where other bacteria working in the presence of air finish the work of destruction begun in the first compartment. The liquid as it leaves this second compartment is nearly harmless and unobjectionable and is disposed of by porous clay drainage pipes loosely set in the ground at proper depth and usually utilized as sub-surface irrigation, but may be used for surface irrigation, a so-called "sewage farm" large or small.

Such an installation should be of sufficient size to contain a week's sewage practically undisturbed and for the ordinary family requires about 200 feet of drainage pipe preferably disposed much like the lines of a pitchfork. A septic tank is not unduly expensive, about one and one-half times that of a cesspool and when properly built, with grease traps which intercept and prevent grease from coating the walls of tank and drain pipes, etc., and of correct size and drainage, is reasonably efficient, should last indefinitely and is practically free from objectionable features.

How long a tank will last depends entirely on a very few factors:

1.—Strong chemicals, acids, etc., which kill bacteria cannot be disposed of in a septic tank.

2.—Grease traps must be provided and cleaned frequently. Sand traps are also desirable.

3.—Sufficient storage space must exist for the "bacterial scum" to remain undisturbed the required time for bacterial action upon the sewage.

4.—Porous soil for drain pipe and pipe sufficient to freely contain the water discharged, or sufficient surface drainage space, are essential.

The objections to the septic tank are few.

First It must be used a month or so before an efficient "scum" and bacterial action are secured and odors destroyed.

Second: Insoluble parts such as grit, scouring powders, etc., gradually collect upon the floor of the tank and periodically must be removed, and this renovation destroys the scum, which has to reform before the tank is again efficient.

Third: During wet weather, especially in heavy soils, the ground becomes water-logged, seepage from irrigation is interferred with, percolation of water from the drain pipes may stop, backing up and bringing to the surface raw sewage, just as occurs when a cesspool is blocked or clogged, and with much difficulty is encountered.

NOTE:—It is upon the principles just enumerated that the Cameron septic tank system much used by cities, relies for its success. Of course, the tanks are very large and often in a long series to obtain sufficient time for bacterial action. In some plants elaborate screens and spreading machinery are used to hasten disposal. This plan is practical but should not be used near populated centers because much of the operation is in the open and is likely to be objectionable.

The next higher step in scientific sewage disposal is a combination septic tank with a cesspool for the clear overflow. Such a battery, properly installed and cared for, should last indefinitely, be perfectly safe locally and is not unreasonably expensive. This combination will not work for any great length of time unless the tank is of ample size to fully reduce the sewage emptied into it. Overflow not reduced as it should be will, of course, clog a cesspool eventually, though not as rapidly as will a steady flow of raw sewage. The time a cesspool in this connection will last barring caving accidents, can be measured by the efficiency of the tank.

This septic tank-cesspool arrangement is the one now being used in the unit system in our business district and will succeed only to the degree it complies with the elements above noted for construction and operation.

The business district units have two real advantages, i. e. their installation meets an emergency with comparative satisfaction and safety, and in case a general sewer system later is installed, the collecting apparatus of the units can be "hooked up" with sewer mains with no other economic loss than the cost of tanks and cesspools. Such a loss should not figure over 20 or 25 per cent and may well be repaid by the service rendered.

The final and latest successful method of sewage disposal consists of a system of collecting sewers which lead to large tanks and equipment for treatment of sewage to reduce it to harmless and inoffensive liquid and dry solids. There are many methods in use throughout the world, ranging from drying beds; "sewer farms," which, as noted before, are practically septic tanks or modified treatment plants with either surface or sub-surface irrigation; to the latest "activated sludge" type. This latter type is the one now being used for the Verdugo canon sewage and owes one of its chief claims for favor to the fact that aeration of the sludge or mineral content of the sewage robs it of the property of becoming putrid—in other words, its power to produce odors. The activated sludge plant comes as nearly as possible to the desired object of reducing raw sewage to harmless and inoffensive fluids and solids. With the added safeguard of treating the run-off fluids chemically or by adequate sand filters, the nearest approach to sanitary safety is achieved. The solids and derivations may be converted into more or less valuable by-products such as grease, fertilizer, etc., and the fluid sold for irrigation purposes to partly offset taxes but it seems just to again state the basic fact that sewage disposal cannot be made to pay for itself. It is much more likely to become a charge than even a partly paying proposition. This result is due chiefly to the law of supply and demand. End products are constantly accumulating while markets fluctuate, both by season and by supply and demand.

Installation of such an activated sludge plant with chlorination of buids or filteration is not unduly expensive, does not require a farm, does not need a large tract of land and is nearly inoffensive. It must be located wherever sewage can be taken by gravity flow and that location should be capable of receiving at least 80 per cent of the sewage and as nearly 100 per cent as possible without pumping to be economical in operation. If there exist a dozen locations providing this requirement, the factors of density of population, proximity to public institutions, cost of ground, etc., must be taken into consideration in selecting the one most feasible site. If there is only one site available, that one must be chosen and every other consideration made subservient to the needs and welfare of the community taken as a whole. If some interests must suffer, if some citizens must move, the injured should receive reasonable financial compensation, but not be permitted to obstruct progress.

As a workable and fair solution for the sewage problem confronting Glendale, the following plans are suggested:

1.—A committee of local engineers should be appointed by the council, either to make a topographical map of the entire sewage area or to examine such a map if one is available and locate all possible sites where an adequate sewage disposal plant could be economically operated. No other factors need be considered by them.

2.—A representative citizens' committee appointed, possibly by the chamber of commerce, should then examine the engineers' report and select the two most feasible and favorable sites—all factors considered—submitting their reasons for such selections.

3.—The council should then decide upon the type of plant, probable cost of same, call a bond election to provide funds for the disposal plant and intercepting trunk line sewers and at the same time request the voters to express their preference of the two sites recommended.

How would such a plan work out? With survey and maps available, sewage districts could be laid out according to the topographical drainage areas, the central collecting mains for each one leading to some of the required trunk lines of the disposal works.

Any district already provided with collecting mains (such as the present business district) could hook up at once without additional expense and the system commence operations. Then, as other districts at various times arrived at the necessity or desirability of sewer connections, the collecting mains could be placed by sufficient petitions of each district in the same manner that water mains are now provided. Any district immediately bordering upon a trunk line already paid for by the bond issue should likewise petition for connections and pay the proportionate cost of a collecting system into the sinking fund for the bonds, thus equalizing the costs in all the districts.

Not only does this plan present the advantages of prompty caring for pressing needs and equalization of costs. It distributes individual costs over a more or less extended period. First, that of a moderate general bond issue; second, a later district assessment, and third, each property owner could hook up to his district mains when the system at the time employed by him should have become inadequate of unsatisfactory. However, no new individual plants, neither cesspools nor tanks, should be allowed after the central disposal plant had been placed in commission.

This plan likewise would work to the financial interest of the city. The early sewage intake and operating costs would be small and increase gradually as the sewage increased with each additionally created district, and as the districts built up and connections were installed. With this gradual increase also would come growing efficiency of personnel and methods and possible creation of markets for by-products.

As a final and general advantage to us, it may be said no part of the proposed system would become a loss in case final connection of our trunk lines with a city or grand sanitary district outfall sewer through the San Fernando valley or Los Angeles to a central disposal plant. In any event we would have to pay for our entire sewage collection and discharge system within Glendale limits. The only additional cost would be that of switching the flow of sewage from our own disposal plant to the new outfall sewer line. The disposal plant should always be held as an insurance agent against accidental interruption of the outfall sewer, with deplorable conditions and litigation such as Los Angeles is at this time facing from the same cause. It is certain that the existing Los Angeles outfall sewer, already inadequate, can never be used by Glendale. There is a possibility, more or less doubtful and many years in the future, that Glendale might arrange to come in on a new and greater Los Angeles outfall sewer. Let us hope so and let us remember that we will pay a very large sum for it and the privilege when it does come. Therefore, would it not be well to have our own system in and paid for against that time?

In the meantime our own plant will have cared for our needs, paid for itself by service and still remain as before mentioned, a valuable insurance asset against accidents and emergencies. Simply the opening of a gate to avoid suits and trouble.

In conclusion, just a word regarding Los Angeles' threats to prevent the installation of our own sewage disposal plant. There exists no single scientific nor sanitary ground for Los Angeles to stand on in such a case. It is raw sewage now as against practically harmless products from the plant. It is public necessity with us against noise with them. Los Angeles can no more prevent our sanitary disposal of sewage by methods and in a location approved by the state board of health than she can take away our domestic water, which for years, with equal noise, she has threatened to do. THEODORA COMES TO THE GLENDALE

It is difficult to remember when two more realistic characterizations have been seen in a motion picture than those of Theodora Augusta, Empress of the East, by Rita Jolivet and Gorgia, chief executioner, in charge of the torture chamber in "Theodora," the great Italian screen spectacle which opens an engagement at the Glendale theatre tonight, tomorrow and Friday.

Not one of the forty lions who are turned loose on a swarm of 25,000 men and women in the great hippodrome scene looks half as fierce as Gorgia. It would appear that Guido Marciano, who plays the part, was born especially for it. He was selected after an exhaustive search through Italy as the most ferocious looking man that could be found.

Truths in Epigram

It was a saying of his that education was an ornament in prosperity and a refuge in adversity. — Laertius (200 A. D.).

Arts and sciences are not cast in a mould, but are formed and perfected by degrees, by often handling and polishing as bears leisurely lick their cubs into form.—Montaigne (1533-1592).

WHAT CAN A MAN AFFORD?

The American Economic association offered $1500 for the best essays on the subject "What Can a Man Afford?" It was enabled to do this through the generosity of E. A. Karelsen.

To be more specific, the question relates to the proportion of income that a man can afford to dedicate to philanthropic purpose. The first prize was awarded to Paul and Dorothy Douglas. Indubitably they earned the money. The mere labor of research must have been formidable. The array of figures, charts, and the endeavor to deduce from them a rule to govern the impulse of charity, was a task not for the slothful. The utility of the essay is yet to be demonstrated, although the high purpose of it may be recognized. The desire of the donor of the prizes doubtless was to stimulate giving on the part of such as are not wont to contribute in proportion to their means, or on a scale to meet the ever-present demand.

Some doubt arises as to extensive reading of the essay, for it is not an inviting piece of literature. Rather it is somewhat repellent, prosy enough in its aspect, and made heavier by the presence of statistics.

Charity is with difficulty defined. The amount that a man can afford to give is likely still to be determined by the man himself. If he is liberal, kind-hearted and so situated as to be conscious of the call of want, his response may be more than he ought to give. He may be taking from his own store that which he will need bitterly in his old age. On the other hand, if naturally stingy, he will remain stingy, quite regardless of his resources.

AN EX-KING'S DEATH

The death in exile of the former Emperor Charles of Austria-Hungary is not to be regarded as a world calamity. At the same time it presents an unusual element of pathos. Charles was no mighty intelligence, but the ordinary individual of royalty, dominated in his conduct and views by inherited belief in the divine right of kings. That he should have been influenced by the kaiser in a time of crisis, was nothing at which to wonder. Wilhelm was the type it was natural for him to admire. The cause of Wilhelm was one towards which he must have inclined. He saw a struggle between monarchy and democracy. In the defeat of the former, it is probable he thought he discerned a catastrophe unspeakably horrible. He was caught in the current that engulfed so many of his kind. It washed him up on a distant shore a prisoner and dependent.

Charles was not to be censured for having been a king. It would be impossible to condemn him for having thought as a king. The history of his country, and of the line that produced him, so circumstanced that his destiny was to sit on a throne, could have taught him no other manner of thought. He was the victim of a long series of circumstances. Fate elected him to a role that led to heavy penalty. This penalty he was paying as death came to his relief.

The first rumors of his illness were not fully credited. There were suspicions that he was trying to arouse sympathy. It is evident now that he was not playing a game. The stamp of sincerity that death leaves is final and absolute.

AROUSING PUBLIC INTEREST

Two faithful policemen are killed by robbers whom they had undertaken to arrest. The supposed murderers in due season come to trial. Belief in their guilt is buttressed by the circumstance that they confessed. Their trial excites hardly a passing interest. No crowds throng the court room. The papers of the city where the crimes occurred give scant space to proceedings.

The policemen were useful members of society. At the time of their slaying they were guarding the interests of sleeping citizens. They were engaged in preserving order, and in beating back the onslaught of degenerate hordes. They must have been aware that they were doing this at the risk of their lives. They were the heads of families. Loving wives watched their goings to duty, and prayed for their safe return.

As a contrast, one may glance backwards into the court room where the trial of a woman charged with murder was in progress. She was a person of far less importance than a policeman. So far as her career had been revealed it was a record of uselessness. There was no showing that she had done her duty in any walk of life, that she desired an honorable career, or had thought of any purpose higher than the satisfaction of her own needs. She filled no place and had no mission in the scheme of life. Yet the crowds stormed the doors to get a sight of her. They loafed for hours in discomfort so as to watch her attitude, or hear her speak.

What is the matter with American crowds? Their sympathies so often seem to go wrong, their estimate of values seems to be so childish.

WONDERS OF THE WIRELESS

It would be wise for all to study the wireless, to learn something of the marvels of radio activity that is likely to become one of the commonplace necessaries of human existence. There are scientific papers that explain the subject. To the general lay reader it is all a mystery still, an unsolved wonder. The tales of radio achievements are as startling to him as the most fabulous work of the imagination. In truth they are much more startling. The fertile mind may imagine anything, and have only the task of setting it down on paper. The genius of achievement gives his dream a form, and sets it to work.

Once in a book by H. G. Wells, while still he was producing fiction, there was a fascinating study of memory. The author assumed, in effect, that memory was as a scroll upon which all human destiny was inscribed. The individual, through contact, cognized a minute portion of this scroll, and the impress his mind received was what constituted the things of his recollection—his memory. Wells caused the mortal intelligence to be projected forwards so that the scroll of memory was discerned to the end of time. His theory was that the events already had their places on the scroll, but that the limitations of mortal did not permit knowledge of them.

Other writers have stated that somewhere, immeasurably distant in space, the ether that vibrated when Babylon fell, still bears the picture of that event; that all the battles of the ancients, all the scenes that marked the rise and fall of civilizations now forgotten, are traveling through the void, as vivid and complete as they appeared to the spectators actually present at each phase of the struggle.

Wells was fanciful. The others were carrying a theory farther than is to be justified by any knowledge vouchsafed mankind at this stage of development. But none has said aught stranger, more difficult for the senses to grasp, than is said when the story of the wireless is told by an authority in the new and stupendous field of science.

AN EXTRA MOTHER

One of the twins of the pair so joined by tissue that they could not be separated, was a wife and mother. She left a son 12 years of age. The other twin never had been married. As was to have been expected, this singular twain died almost simultaneously. Out of these almost unique conditions has arisen an absolutely unique question in medical jurisprudence. At least there has been an effort to project such a question into legal proceedings.

The claim is made that the identity of the twins was so merged that they are to be regarded as one individuality. Taking this ground involves acceptance of the theory that each was mother to the boy. Should this be sustained, the fortune earned by joint efforts would pass intact to the boy. Otherwise he would be entitled only to the portion of the twin it had been his habit to regard as mother.

Hardly is it to be assumed that any lawyer seriously advanced the theory of a duality being single. Even if such a lawyer is found, there will be a total absence of public opinion back of him.

There seems to be solid ground for the belief that twins are twins.

New York courts fined a janitor because he had taken away the beds of a tenement, for which rent was overdue, although two children sick with measles had been occupying the beds. May it not be hoped that in addition to the $50 penalty, the janitor may catch the measles and communicate them to the landlord?

THE IRISH QUESTION

By DR. FRANK CRANE

What seems to me to be the real solution of the Irish question I find in Heywood Broun's column in the New York World.

DR. FRANK CRANE

He quotes from a correspondent by the name of J. W. McConaughy, who writes:

"It is very difficult for us to understand the Irish situation, because Ireland is the last outpost of the Occident and all of us have come strongly under the influence of certain Oriental exotics such as mathematics and imperialism. Both of these were invented beyond the Mediterranean; and the Irish, being the last Christian patriots extant, have a healthy contempt for both. All of us having proved to our own sad and dreary satisfaction that 4,000,000 people could have no chance fighting 40,000,000, the Irish proceeded to show how it could be done. Having got more from the British imperial government than all the hundreds of Oriental millions have ever been able to get, we do not understand why they are still not satisfied. Yet the answer is easy: They have not yet got what they want.

"They are irritated by this settlement—I think for the same reason that I feel a sense of loss in connection with it. As nearly as I can analyze this feeling it arises from the fact that the whole arrangement is so damned 'sensible' and stifles a lot of people who want to die for a flag, for an altar, for a song. It is one of the most reasonable treaties that a 'strong' power ever made with a 'weak' one, but in true Oriental fashion it leaves out a consideration such tremendous realities as for what tune the Irish youth shall stand uncovered and his right to choose his enemies."

This statement is amusing; but underneath its whimsicality there is a truth.

And the truth is that the same thing is the matter with Ireland that is the matter with every other country. Its leaders are much more occupied in seeking glory and honor for that idealized something they call the nation than they are in endeavoring to establish justice in the land, to maintain freedom, to encourage the humanities, to make everybody happy, and to co-operate with other nations and thus influence them to do likewise.

The Irish movement is a curious mixture of rabid progress and equally rabid reactionism. Irishmen want to go on to something new and want just as violently to go back to something old.

And, as far as that is concerned, so do all the rest of us.

In time the situation will work itself out. In conditions of democracy and self-government the Irish people will eventually get what they want, and that is what Ireland and every other nation most needs. For when we get what we want, and then only, do we learn our own strength and weakness.

THE LISTENING POST

Once there was a very rich man.
Whose first name was Samuel.
His other name is unimportant.
Indeed, it may be that he did not have any other name.

* * *

One name is enough.
As far as dignity is concerned.
The only reason we have more than one name is for purposes of identification.
Thus if people had only one name, there would arise a certain confusion.
There might be a thousand Johns in a city.

And when you referred to John, nobody would know which John you meant.
So in times past other names were added for purposes of closer identification.
And thus we got surnames.
There might be John of Eastend.
And John of Westend.

And after a time we might have John Easton.
And John Weston.
Nomenclature came about perhaps something like that.
It was a kind of development or evolution.

* * *

If Adam had lived a long time and there had been many children named after him he would have had to assume a second name for convenience sake.
As Adam Eden.
To distinguish him from the many other growing Adamses.

But to get back to Samuel.
Samuel was rich.
He had immense properties.
Scattered all over several continents.
He had farms and forests and harbors and cities and coal mines and fisheries and all that.

* * *

Samuel was a kindly disposed old man.
He wanted to do the best he could for everybody.
He disliked to see unemployment.
Or hard times.
And he had a lot of advisers.
On every subject under the sun.

* * *

And knowing the disposition of the kindly old man to do everything possible for his children and relatives and friends some of his advisers came to him often with new schemes for promoting prosperity.

Among them being the signing of notes for the purchase of anything needed.

They counseled the old man to issue money in unlimited quantities.
He had lots of property.
Everybody trusted him.
Why not?

* * *

So the old man with the kindly disposition began signing notes.
Promising to pay sometime.
For thousands at first.
And after a time for millions.
There was no limit.
Till he began issuing billions of promises to pay.
Without any special security.

* * *

It was fine at first.
There was a flood of new money.
Everybody got a lot easily.
But as the quantity increased the value decreased.
And prices began to go up.

And when the old man wanted anything he did not need to do anything but issue another million or billion dollars worth of promises.
Till in the due course of time his promises began to be doubted.
Not because of his character.
But because there is a limit to any man's ability to pay.
And then there was a general attempt to unload.
Everybody sought to get out from under.
To dispose of Sam's promises at any price at all.
And finally there came a crash!

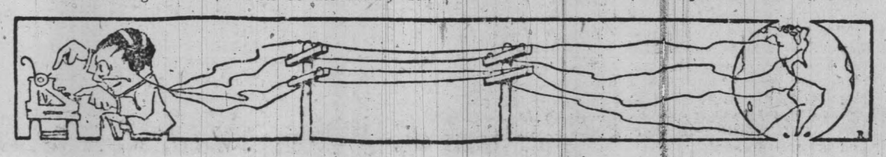
And Sam waked up with bankruptcy on his hands, business pretty well smashed and floods and floods of easy money that was not worth much.
Because it was only printing press money.

JAMES W. FOLEY.



SONGS OF THE POETS

The Turn of the Road—Alice Rollit Coe (18——)

Soft, gray buds on the willow,
Warm, moist winds from the bay,
Sea-gulls out on the sandy beach,
And a road my eager feet would reach,
That leads to the Far-away.

Dust on the wayside flower,
The meadow-lark's luring tone
Is silent now, from the grasses tipped
With dew at the dawn, the pearls have slipped—
Far have I fared alone.

And then, by the alder thicket
The turn of the road—and you!
Though the earth lie white in the noonday heat.
Or the swift storm follow our hurrying feet
What do we care—we two!

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

"ONE YEAR OF HARDING"

[New York Times, Ind't.]

This is the artful title chosen by Representative Fess of Ohio for his speech in defence and glorification of the republican party after a year of power. Congressmen would be well pleased to have the country look at the President instead of too hard at themselves. Mr. Harding retains his popularity in a large degree. Congress has utterly lost whatever it had. And members of the lower house in particular who are tremulously waiting the November elections as a sort of Dies Irae are following only an instinct of self-preservation when they are planning to meet their discontented and angry constituents in the shadow of the President if possible.

Into the details of Mr. Fess' presentation of the wonderful republican record during the past twelve months it is not necessary to go. His own arguments defeat themselves. Along with every contention of his regarding the mighty deeds of his party, there goes a tacit and sometimes open confession that congress has left affairs in a mess. But this only prompts him to blame the democrats. They so nearly wrecked the country that it has not yet been possible for the republicans to complete the work of salvage. Such fearful things were "bequeathed" to the Harding administration that, to quote Mr. Fess, "we have not in the short space of one year been able to give relief for the evils of years of democratic mismanagement."

There could hardly be a plainer confession of failure. Turn back to the republican platform of 1920 and see how the promises then made are given the lie by actual performance. Then no doubt was admitted that the republican party would be able to get through the labors of Hercules thrust upon it by democratic incompetence. Now the country believes that things have been made worse rather than better. With a record of muddled taxation, absolutely nothing done about the tariff, the claims of American citizens against Germany not yet put in the way of settlement, divisions and dissensions in a leaderless congress, republican representatives would have too much reason to look forward with fear and trembling to the congressional elections, were it not for one thing. They still have Fess.

JUST BETWEEN OURSELVES

By DELLA STEWART

One of the great mistakes of the past was the effort to make all men think and act alike. Human nature can never be standardized. Yet society was constantly making the endeavor. He who dared assert individuality, instead of blindly following, was decreed odd. To be one's self was almost a crime; to be peculiar was to be vulgar. Convention became the law with all of us its slaves.

If this conformity had always meant lifting up to the highest level, much of it might be forgiven. But instead, too often it meant dragging down to a common level. The great artists and poets, the thinkers and authors, the statesmen and men of science, they have been those who refused to go with the multitude. And, until ignoring their superior talents became impossible, they, too, suffered criticism, derision, lack of understanding.

But now the pendulum is swinging to the opposite extreme. We must practise extreme self-determination. We must think our own thoughts—no matter how weird they be; the weirder the better. We must throw away the effete standards of the past and erect to ourselves new ones. That the new ones have no background of proved wisdom makes no difference. Bravely we Don Quixotes start forth. Nor do our falls discourage us. Where shall we end?

Between the Scylla of the past and the Charybdis of the present, is a broad plane of wisdom to which we may all attain. But, will we? In the answer to that question lies the fate of the world.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Demand for a pardon for Mrs. Peete came a little sooner than had been anticipated. So far as the public has any knowledge of the circumstances, there is not a shadow of ground for such pardon.

HENRY JAMES

The woman had a fair trial. She was given every chance to vindicate herself. She was defended with zeal by lawyers noted for their skill. At no time were they able to advance any evidence to show the woman was not guilty as charged. There never was the slightest explanation of the right she had to annex the property of the dead man, to sign his name to checks, and the story she told was so plainly a fabric of falsity that it received and merited no consideration.

Lately her lawyer came from a conference with the prisoner to proclaim that the murder was not committed by her, but by a man she named. This allegation was investigated, and found to be without basis. Then came the rumor that the prisoner was not in good health, and therefore was deserving of pardon. It may be she is less robust than when engaged in the activities that caused her the discomfort of restraint. Nevertheless, one may ask without being heartless, "What of it?"

When the state sends an individual to prison for life, it does not do so as conditional upon that individual's health, and it is unable to guarantee continued vigor.

Some objection has been made to the term "rogue lawyer" and yet the term seems to meet a pressing need. The criminal lawyer, no matter how wickedly he strives to hinder the processes of justice, is not regarded by the courts as a criminal, else his methods of practice would be barred, and he himself disbarred.

But in instances where his offending is grievious, even though unpunished, he indubitably is a rogue.

There are more dangers on the highway than the average automobilist, rolling gaily along, has any notion. The chance that some other driver will be careless, that mechanism will break, that bad spots may have developed in the road, may be regarded with reasonable equanimity.

There are thugs to be considered. The fact that the man who asks for a ride may be a robber is worth bearing in mind. This fact has impressed itself deeply enough to have eliminated the former sense of courtesy. It is not safe to take a stranger into the machine. It is not safe always to pause to offer aid when another automobile seems to be in difficulties.

At present women who take long rides alone are running a risk. The woman who accepts the proffer of a ride is running a risk. The girl in the city who accepts an invitation for a little spin at night with a strange young man, of course is a fool, but even she should be warned of her peril.

Two years ago a prisoner escaped from a Chicago officer who was trying to take him to prison. The escape was by the method of leaping through a window of a moving train.

The other day a man slipped on an icy pavement in Chicago. As he stumbled, he grabbed at the arm of the nearest pedestrian. The man who had slipped was the escaped prisoner. The pedestrian he had grabbed was the officer from whom he had escaped. The journey to the penitentiary was resumed.

Here is found an excellent example of the long arm of coincidence in real life. Any scenario writer using it would be hooted for not being reasonably true to actualities.

Fred A. Grace of Pasadena, familiar with the banking business through long connection with it, held up a bank messenger, getting $15,000. He did not have the sum very long. When arrested he confessed his guilt, and pleaded for probation.

The judge listened to the plea and then sentenced Grace to from one to fifty years in the penitentiary.

No particular comment needs to be made on the episode. One might remark that the judicial habit of granting probation to any convicted offender who asked for it seems to be wearing.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Did it ever strike you what a debt the world owes to the man who dares to take a chance? Nine men out of ten—or ninety-nine out of a hundred—are bound by the chains of circumstance or convention or lack of initiative. The tenth man, or the hundredth man, takes a chance. If he gets away with it he is a big man. If he doesn't, every one says he is several different sorts of a fool. If he is very lucky, he escapes without losing his job.

"The Yaquis are on the rampage," one used to read in the reports from Nogales, Ariz. "They have captured John Jones, prospector, and fired the soles of his feet."

The state department used to say in effect.

"Isn't that too bad!"

You see, the Yaquis belonged in Mexico, and to interfere with them would be to embroil ourselves with Mexico. And we didn't want to be embroiled with Mexico. This was during the Carranza regime. It is doubtful if Carranza could have checked the Yaquis if he had wanted to, and so long as they merely fried Americans he assuredly did not want to. He felt that way about Americans himself.

"I cannot stand this," said United States Consul Dyer at Nogales. "I'll have to try to protect Americans, at least."

So he went out into the hills alone and met the Yaqui chiefs and explained the situation to them, and for two years there have been no Americans killed by this tribe of self-respecting Indians—dangerous because they are self-respecting. The state department has taken no notice of Dyer's act. It could not very well. If it comended him it would be countenancing an act which—strictly speaking—was a breach of the international comities. It could hardly reprimand him, because through him the lives of many Americans were saved. But if he had gone out there and met the Yaquis and they had held him over a slow fire until he was thoroughly baked on one side—and then basted him lightly with bacon fat and roasted him on the other——

Then, oh, then, the state department would have reprimanded this man who took a chance.

DO YOU KNOW THAT?

Steps are being taken to standardize the methods of erecting crossings of overhead electrical wires.

MRS. TURCK ENTERTAINS CHAPTER A. H. OF P. E. O.

Chapter A. H. of the P. E. O. was entertained Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. Charles Turck, assisted by Mrs. Clyde Van Etten, at La Crescenta hotel, where Mr. and Mrs. Turck are now living.

There was no program, the ladies being busy with needlework for the charities they assist.

A business session was held, which Miss Blanche Davenport, the new president, conducted. At that session announcement was made that the delegates to the state P. E. O. convention, to be held next week at the Raymond hotel, will be Mrs. W. W. Worley and Mrs. A. W. Beach.

About 25 ladies were present and a very pleasant social afternoon was enjoyed.

CHRISTIAN GIRLS HOLD MEETING

The rain did not prevent 83 girls from meeting at the Christian Circle club Tuesday evening. The delicious supper was served by the ladies of the Pacific Avenue Methodist church. This was followed by roll call by the churches, and the Baptist church had the largest number in attendance.

A pageant was then given by some of the girls from the First Methodist church, which was thoroughly enjoyed by all. Mrs. Carl, a worker in the W. C. T. U., addressed the girls on "The Ideals for Girls." She spoke very convincingly and her talk was an interesting one.

PRESBYTERIAN WOMEN HOLD ALL DAY SESSION

The Women's society of the Presbyterian church met Tuesday at an all-day meeting at the church.

The ladies spent the morning sewing and at noon ate lunch, each member bringing their own.

In the afternoon a short business session was held in which they made plans for the new year, such as getting out their year book, etc.

Mrs. J. A. Newton, president, presided over the meeting and she was heartily welcomed back, having been ill for some time with influenza.

SONS OF VETERANS HOLD MEETING

Daughters Assemble at Event as Invited Guests

The Sons of Veterans held their regular meeting Tuesday night at the American Legion hall, 610½ East Broadway, with a fine attendance. The Sons had previously extended an invitation to the Daughters of Veterans to attend this meeting and there were a great many there.

During the evening a program was enjoyed, in which talks on "Patriotism" were given by C. A. Stuart, Joe V. Griffin, Will Goss and Commander McGee. H. W. Hall and Robert Danner rendered several musical numbers, Mr. Hall playing the violin and Mr. Danner the piano. These numbers were greatly enjoyed, as they included several old time pieces.

Mrs. Susie Peck, president of the Daughters, gave an interesting talk. There were several members from Los Angeles present.

At the close of this interesting evening, refreshments of sandwiches, cake and coffee were served by the Daughters of Veterans.

CULLID FOLKS PARTY IS EXCELLENT

The "cullid folks' pahty" given by members of the Laides' Aid of the Central Avenue Methodist church Tuesday night was a great success, an excellent audience coming out to enjoy the entertainment put on by the chorus made up of church members in minstrel make-up and costume.

When the collection was taken at the close of the performance, the audience was invited to come up front and deposit the money in the contribution box as is done in the colored churches, and when counted it was found that $28 had been added to the society's funds.

The chorus numbers were: "Steal Away," "Turn Back Pharoh's Army," "Nellie Was a Lady," "Keep de Middle ob de Road," "Noah's Ark," and "Mary and Martha," "Old Folks at Home," and "Dixie Land."

Interspersed between these choruses were solo numbers, viz.

Reading by Sallie Green, (Mrs. E. E. Harwood), "The One-Legged Goose."

Vocal solo by Rachel Rollinpin, (Mrs. Frahm), "Kentucky Babe."

Saxophone solo by Martha's Johnny, (Master Gulick).

Piano number by Lallie Mahalia Jogalong, (Mrs. Casper Tuttle).

Reading, "The Return of the Hoe," by Dinah Cross, (Miss Harwood).

Vocal number by Hannah Snowball, (Miss Jewell Garner).

Song, "Old Block Joe," by Booker T. Washington, (Robert Taylor).

Following this program, which was greatly enjoyed if applause is any indication of sentiment, refreshments of fried chicken, coffee and sandwiches were served and while the supper was in progress rapid fire darkey stories were volunteered by the audience, a spontaneous and much appreciated addition to the pleasures of the evening.

R. T. W. CLASS MEET AT DOXSEE HOME

The members of the R. T. W. class of the First Baptist church held their regular meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Jennie B. Doxsee, 360 Salem street.

Devotionals were led by Mrs. Grover Adams. Following a short business session, a very interesting talk was given by Mrs. Linnie Carl of Portland, Ore., on the subject of "Our Girls and Their Church Social Education." Mrs. Carl also gave a delightful reading.

The old saying, "April showers bring May flowers," was beautifully carried out by little Bobbie Morrow who came in dressed in pink crepe paper costumes and carrying a huge pink parasol to which gifts were attached and these together with many other gifts were showered upon one of the members.

The room was attractively decorated in blue and white flowers and there were about 30 ladies present.

At the close of the afternoon delicious refreshments, suggestive of the Easter season were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Robert Morrow, Mrs. Harry Chase, Mrs. P. L. Hatch and Mrs. J. B. Doxsee.

JELLIED VEAL

Soak one tablespoon granulated gelatine in one-fourth cup cold water, and dissolve in one cup boiling water; then add one-fourth cup each of sugar and vinegar, two tablespoons lemon juice and one teaspoon salt. Strain, cool, and when beginning to stiffen add one and one-half cups cold cooked veal cut in small cubes and one and one-half canned pimientos cut in small pieces. Turn into a mould and chill. Remove from mould, cut in thin slices, and serve with:

HORSERADISH SAUCE

Mix one tablespoon tarragon vinegar, two tablespoons grated horseradish, one teaspoon mustard, one-half teaspoon salt and a few grains cayenne; then add one-half cup heavy cream beaten until stiff and three tablespoons mayonnaise dressing.

SEMBRICH SANDWICHES

Cut white bread in one-fourth inch slices and spread four slices on both sides sparingly with butter, which has been worked until creamy; remaining two slices on but one side. Put between slices finely chopped cold boiled ham moistened with cream and seasoned with mustard and cayenne, and chopped nut meats moistened with mayonnaise dressing; there should be three layers of each, alternating mixtures. Repeat until sufficient quantity is prepared. Fold in cheese-cloth, press under a weight and keep in a cool place until serving time. Cut in one-fourth inch slices for serving.

HI GIRLS ARE GOOD HOSTESSES

Frances Goldsborough and Jewel Cole, members of the advanced cooking class in the domestic science department of Glendale High, of which Miss Ellen Hanson is the head, are today the working hostesses at a luncheon for ten members of the faculty of Glendale High, viz. Mr. and Mrs. George U. Moyse, Miss Poppy, Miss Field, Mr. Borncamp, Miss Creath, Mr. Brown, Miss Helmer, Miss Magnason and Miss Gilson.

It is an Easter affair with a big nest of parti-colored eggs centering the table. Ingenious nut baskets have been made by the hostesses, little basket phaetons made of egg shells mounted on paper wheels drawn by imitation chickens.

The menu is the big thing, however, and includes egg cutlets and green peas, carrot timbales, stuffed baked potatoes, cheese salad in a nest of lettuce with a thousand island dressing, hot homemade raised rolls, lemon pie and coffee.

REBEKAH LODGE MET TUESDAY EVENING

The meeting of Carnation Rebekah lodge Tuesday evening was largely attended and of unusual interest.

Mrs. Genevieve Smith of Los Angeles, district deputy president, was present for her last official visit, accompanied by the grand marshal and a delegation of about 25 Rebekahs from Los Angeles. She conducted a school of instruction and exemplified the work in a most creditable manner. Mrs. Smith and the grand marshal were presented with handsome pieces of Japanese pottery by Mrs. Lydia La Force, Noble Grand of Carnation lodge.

Mrs. Maddox of 343 West Windsor, was admitted to the lodge by transfer from Una Rebekah lodge of Los Anegeles.

Applications for membership were received from Mr. and Mrs. Hall of 126 Franklin Court, and announcement was made that an initiation will take place two weeks hence.

Following the session, refreshments of cake and cocoa were served in the banquet hall.

A meeting of the Colorado state society will be held next Saturday evening in the Walker Auditorium building, 730 South Grand avenue. A program of songs and readings will be followed by dancing.

Former residents of Idaho will meet in the Angelus hotel hall next Saturday evening. President H. G. Redwine will preside.

The annual picnic of the Connecticut state society will be held Saturday, April 15, at Sycamore Grove, in conjunction with the picnic of the New York state society. Former residents of both states living in Southern California are expected to attend.

There should be a state law making proposals by moonlight invalid. The game is all in favor of the woman.

MISS ELDRED TELLS TUESDAY CLUB OF RELIEF WORK

Brahm Van den Berg Gives Program at Open Forum Meeting

While a wonderful program by Brahm Van den Berg, Glendale's piano virtuoso was the feature of the meeting of the Tuesday Afternoon club, there were two speakers who preceded him. Miss Irene Eldred who gave a talk on the Near-East Relief, was the first to be introduced.

She rapidly outlined the work of the relief commission and the fact that American aid had alone saved the Armenians from annihilation. She declared that because of the assistance they had rendered the allies during the world war, Germany and Russia entered into a pact to annihilate them. First the men were made way with, then the youths were segregated and sent into the Caucasian mountains on the pretext of using them in the building of roads. Their arms were taken from them and they found themselves in a desolate country in which there were no roads to be built. They were divided into groups of 50 and 100 and shot.

The women and children were driven into the desolate valley of the Mesopotamia, the Kurds and Arabs rushing down upon them and seizing any young girls of beauty who were carried off to the Turkish harems and there branded with the mark of their masters.

She spoke of the hospitals established and the rescue homes for the Armenian girls drifting back with their Turkish babies on whom the skilful American physicians are removing the brands supposedly ineffaceable; but the greatest work of all she declared, is the orphanages in which are 110,000 rescued and restored children who would not be living today but for the succor they have received and who will perish if it is withdrawn. It was an eloquent plea to "carry on" until a stable government can be established which will protect these helpless children, the future citizens of the land.

She spoke appreciatively of the $12,000 given by Glendale last year, and said that Glendale is asked to take care of 200 of these orphan children under what is termed the "life insurance policy." Literature concerning the clothing drive to be conducted the last of the week through the schools, was distributed, and Miss Eldred exhibited a typical garment composed of 29 patches which she had brought with her from Armenia to show to what depths of destitution the people are reduced.

Mrs. Charles E. Hutchinson, president of the club, urged members to visit the disabled veterans at Thornycroft and buy the handicraft work they are turning out.

Mrs. George Blesh of Menominee, Mich., gave an interesting account of a very successful boys' club for youths of 10 years and up, which was organized through the instrumentality of an unmarried business woman six years ago under the auspices of the D. A. R., with a membership of about 20 and now has an enrollment of 600. It has an unused school building as a club house, equipped with furniture, a library, player piano, games, a moving picture machine. It has been conducted without dues and without salaries and its work in reducing juvenile delinquency was shown in a letter from a juvenile court judge read by Mrs. Blesh in which he stated that the court had been called upon to deal with but 25 cases the past year against a former record of 10 a day. She expressed the hope that Glendale might establish a boys' club which she would some day have the pleasure of visiting.

Mrs. A. M. Williams, chairman of the Ways and Means committee asked club members to reserve the dates of May 24, 25 and 26 for a surprise which the committee had in store for them. She also announced an apron sale to be held next Tuesday at the close of the meeting.

The altogether delightful program given by Mr. Van den Berg included the stately "Fantasie" by Chopin; the twinkling "Legend" by Raff, suggestive of fairies and gnomes; Mr. Van den Berg's own charming composition, the waltz "To Jaques" from "The Family Album;" the tuneful "Polka de W. R." by Romaninoff; the melodious "Love's Dream" by Liszt; and Brahm's "Cappriccio." These all lead up to the brilliant climax afforded by the last three numbers in which the artist revealed his full powers in "La Campanella" by Liszt; "Concert Etude" of Moszkowsky; and "Rhapsodie No. 6" by Liszt.

DRAGOON IS NEW LOCAL FRATERNITY

The newly formed Dragoon fraternity of Glendale held its second meeting at the home of Prof. Joe Maier of 807 North Adams street.

Mr. Maier was unanimously voted president; Gail R. Kennedy, vice president; Sabin Buck, secretary; Edward Smith, treasurer, and Earl P. Hammond, advertising manager. After important business was transacted, delightful pre-Easter refreshments were served.

This organization has a very strenuous program outlined which will be announced from time to time.

BALLROOM DANCING

New classes in beginning and advanced ballroom dancing will start Wednesday evening, April 5, 7:30 to 9:30 o'clock. Private lessons any time. Special arrangements for clubs and organizations. Mrs. Nanno Woods, 122 West Milford. Phone Glen. 394.—Adv.

K. OF P. HOLD REGULAR MEETING

The regular business session of the local K. of P. lodge was held Tuesday evening with about 40 members present augmented by a delegation of the dramatic order of D. O. K.'s to which about 30 members of the lodge belong. The delegation came to announce the semi-annual ceremonial of the order at Santa Monica April 29, when about 300 will be initiated. Following the meeting the customary banquet was served to members and guests.

At the meeing the Knight rank was conferred on three esquires before Royal Vizier McClure, a large delegation of Los Angeles "Dokkies" and Brothers Tyler, Wilson, Galloway and Clinton of Los Angeles and Brother Green of Texas. The visiting brothers all made enjoyable talks as did brothers Bert Woodward and G. H. King of Glendale. Chancellor Commander C. C. Nicholson, who has been absent for several weeks on account of illness was back on the job and presided over the meeting last night.

After the conferring of the Knight rank a big spread was furnished the members and visiting brothers.

SPANISH WAR VETS MEET TONIGHT

The Glendale Camp of the United Spanish War Veterans will meet tonight at the headquarters of Glendale Post No. 127, American Legion. This is the second meeting since the charter for the newly organized Glendale Camp received its charter and it is expected that a large attendance will be present.

According to the membership committee of the new camp applications for membership are coming in constantly. Starting with less than 50 members at the time of organization the Glendale Camp now has more than 100 members.

BOARD MEETING POSTPONED

There was no meeting of high school trustees Tuesday night, members postponing their session until Friday at 1 p. m., when the returns of the election for high school trustees will be canvassed.

EAGLE ROCK CLUB HONORED BY FEDERATION

Music Section of Twentieth Century Sing at Santa Monica

The music section of the Women's Twentieth Century club, which is under the leadership of Mrs. Ward Dutcher Hume, was honored by an invitation to appear on the Wednesday afternoon program of the annual convention of the Los Angeles district federation of women's clubs, which was held in Santa Monica last week. They went, duly bronzed, in full Indian costume, and sang a group of Indian songs by Cadman and other composers. This was quite a feather in Eagle Rock's cap.

"What Indian school did they come from?" an Eagle Rock clubwoman was asked, and still more amusing was the query, "Can you speak English?" which one of the singers managed to answer calmly.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Tamvakis of Detroit, Mich., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. P. Zettas at their home on Grand View avenue, and may locate in Eagle Rock.

The Eagle Rock Parent-Teacher association will hold its monthly meeting in the Central school auditorium on Wednesday afternoon of this week and hopes for a large attendance.

Walter B. Brown and his brother, F. Morgan Brown, who recently sold their new bungalows on Townsend avenue, will build homes at once on North Hartwick avenue. They have both recovered from the flu, the case of Walter Brown being serious at one time.

SCHOOL BONDS ARE VOTED AT EAGLE ROCK

Only 33 Oppose Issuing $17,500 for Educational Purposes

There was no special effort made to get the voters out at the school election on Friday, and a heavy shower in the afternoon no doubt kept some of the women of Eagle Rock from venturing into the wet streets, still, considerable interest was manifested. The vote for a bond issue of $17,500 was carried overwhelmingly, 368 favoring the measure and only 33 opposing it. The money will be used to build and equip additions to the present schoolhouses, or to purchase new lots and put structures upon them. Each of the candidates for school trustee had many friends. Peter H. Ducker, who has served on the board seven years, was the winner with 280 votes. Prof. John C. Shedd, who at a late day in the campaign was induced to become a candidate, received 133 votes.

There were only two candidates on the union high school ticket, Mrs. Blanche A. Gardiner of Eagle Rock and H. W. Yarick of Glendale to fill two vacancies. The former received 387 votes and the latter 291.

DR. MIMIFIE TELLS OF BRITAIN'S HIGHWAYS

Late Chaplain in World War Draws Large Audience in Eagle Rock

Recommended by the lecture secretary of the United Kingdom, Dr. William C. Mimifie, an ex-chaplain in the world war, treated a good sized audience in the Women's clubhouse Thursday evening to more than two hours of enjoyment as slide after slide of beautiful pictures, many of them colored, revealed "Britain's Highways and Byways." Included among them were historic old castles and ruins, marvelous cathedrals, quaint towns, mountainous Welsh scenery, wooded bypaths, lakes, seaports, the Thomes valley, etc. Interesting facts and descriptions accompanied each picture. The lecturer has a happy faculty of becoming en rapport with his audience.

SCHOOLBOYS SPORT IN BALDY'S SNOW

Fifty graduates of the Eagle Rock schools took a trip to Camp Baldy a week ago Saturday to enjoy a little sport in the snow. They started at 4:30 a. m., in two large trucks, and stopped at Glendora for breakfast. Going three miles above the camp to reach the snow, the arrived at the battlefield about 10:30 and proceeded to make the most of their opportunities. By 7:30 they were back in Eagle Rock. Superintendent E. E. Harwood plans several more outings during the year.

There will be a picnic supper and social gathering in the Presbyterian church Wednesday evening of this week from 6 to 7:30, followed by the annual business meeting of the church, to which every member of the congregation is invited.

Mrs. Belle Baker of the Southern California Edison company is entertaining old friends from Grand Rapids, Mich., at her home on East Ellenwood drive.

The Edison company has leased quarters in the McDonald block now being erected on Colorado boulevard between Mueller's grocery and Castle avenue, which will be more spacious than the present office on South Central avenue.

Women's Label Meeting—The regular business meeting of the Woman's Union Label league will be held Thursday at the home of Mrs. O. G. Thompson, 719 East Colorado street, at 1 o'clock sharp. Every member is urged to be present.

EAGLE ROCK ROLLS UP ASTONISHING GROWTH

Leads All Cities of Equal Population in Building Permits

There is no holding Eagle Rock back these days, in fact, her pace grows more speedy each month. Take the matter of building permits: The public began to observe that such a place is on the map when, last summer, the tabled figures of building valuations in the leading cities of Southern California, which were printed in the Los Angeles papers, showed Eagle Rock half way up the column, ahead of half a dozen much larger communities. But the next six months went far ahead of those figures, rolling up the astonishing total of $1,003,808, certainly unparalleled for a city of 4500 inhabitants. The good work went on in January of this year, to the amount of $157,000. The short and very stormy month of February surprised even the inhabitants with a record of $175,360, and now the figures have jumped into another hundred thousand, the total for March being $227,956. They include the construction of the city hall, $23,000; a $15,000 block, a $5,000 and a $6000 block. The rest of the permits are for dwellings. The following list is exclusive of structures costing less than $6000. The population is now more than 5000.

C. E. Slaght, 144 West Palm avenue, $2000; W. H. Boyde, 423 Glen Eyrie avenue, $1000; L. A. Securities company, 133 North Townsend avenue, $3000; Essie D. Koen, 601 South College View avenue, $650; H. Boehmer, 500 Stanley avenue, $2000; E. E. Hufford, 201 East Ridgeway avenue, $3500; Ole Engen, 146 South Douglas avenue, $600; Walter Gates, 175 East Ellenwood drive, $800; John Schwab, 113 North Highland avenue, $3500.

OREGON FOLKS PICNIC

All who ever lived in the Beaver State are called to meet under the auspices of the Oregon State society for a great picnic reunion, all day, Saturday, April 15, in Sycamore Grove park, Los Angeles. Come as early as you can and spend the day with friends. We will have county registers and headquarters so you can find the old neighbors even with 10,000 present. There will be a brief program opening about 2 o'clock, songs, short talks. Dudley W. Evans, president, will preside and have charge of the day. The main purpose will be to have a good time and to let the people do the talking. We want to see all the tourists and visitors from the old home.

Bring your basket well filled. Coffee will be served free to all who buy the silk souvenir badges.

Each one who learns of this is asked to pass the word along.

Further information may be had of C. H. Parsons, secretary of the Federation of State Societies, office in the Continental National bank, Main and Ninth streets, Los Angeles, phone 10261, where the great Oregon register may be seen. Special information of the president, Dudley W. Evans, phone West 2911.

ART EXHIBIT TO OPEN HERE

that the best works displayed in Los Angeles would be brought to Glendale for the four days.

It has been decided that there will be a nominal charge for admission to the exhibition in the evening, for adults. This charge is to cover the expense that centers around the bringing of the works of these artists to Los Angeles, and will be just sufficient to cover the actual expense of the show. J. M. Rhoades, secretary of the chamber of commerce, who is assisting the committee on the exhibition, said that the money would be used to pay for the transportation of the statuary which, because of its value, would be extremely high, the insurance on the pieces during the four days and to provide a special guard for the exhibit day and night.

The plan to hold this exhibit in Glendale is meeting with the approval of the club women of the city, said Mr. Short. He said that after the first announcement that such an exhibit was being planned for Glendale he received telephone calls from no less than 50 of the most prominent club women of the city endorsing the plan and expressing their appreciation of the effort being made to awaken the artistic and musical spirit of Glendale.

The plan being fostered by the chamber of commerce to give Glendale this exhibition of the works of some of the leading artists in their line of the day is extremely laudable, inasmuch as it will serve to awaken the minds of the people to the fact that even in this day of materialism the artistic spirit is as much a necessity to the city as is commercitl art, if that city is to be worthy of the name. Art has been recognized as a commercial art ever since the day of the de Midicis, and of all branches, sculpture is without doubt the greatest civic art.

No town, no matter the size, but what has its share of this civic art. It would be possible to conceive the erection of a public building and neglect to include windows and doors in the structure, as to erect it without some touch of art in the structure to relieve the monotony of bare, cold walls. The art may be small and practically unnoticed. It may be only a decorative cornice or frieze, but nevertheless it is there and to eliminate it would detract from the building.

The people of the old world realized the necessity of art and its relation to civic life thousands of years ago, and this realization accounts for the cathedral of Rheims, with its classic beauty, the majestic grandeur of the Vatican at Rome and the past splendor of ancient Pompeii. Just as the spirit of art was a necessity in the days when these splendid structures were erected, so is this spirit of value to the American city of today. A city is only as great as its ideals and a city void of art is void of the best ideals.

Southern California is the home of some of the world's leading sculptors, known throughout the nation for their art, and should be the center of exhibits such as the one planned for Glendale and the one recently given in Los Angeles. The Sculptors' Guild of Los Angeles was formed by men and women high in their chosen art, many of them better known in the eastern art centers where their works have been exhibited than they are in their own homes. This organization is willing, and through Mr. Swartz, the secretary, announced this willingness to cooperate with Glendale and the chamber of commerce in making the exhibit a success.

Mr. Swartz has promised that during the period of the exhibit here either he or some other member of the guild will be present to explain the various works on display. He plans on having each morning, when the school children are admitted to the exhivit, either himself or one of the members of the guild present to demonstrate with the use of clay and other materials the development of a statue. These sculptors will make small models with clay and describe the various steps in the construction of a statue.

School children in classes, accompanied by either the principal or a teacher of the school, will be admitted without charge to the exhibit in the mornings. A musical program for each evening will be arranged and will be under the direction of the various musical organizations of the city.

GILRUTH BUYS ICE COMPANY

Albert G. Gilruth, formerly of Alhambra, has taken over the Independent Ice company of Glendale, formerly owned by J. W. Jones, and will continue the business under the name of Glendale Ice Delivery, with headquarters at 106 East California. The motto of this firm is "Service, quality, courtesy." The new owners of this company will install a lot of entirely new equipment, including three new motor trucks.

Cooked Food Sale—St. Mark's Guild will hold a cooked food sale Saturday morning, April 8, at 10:30 o'clock at Neale & Gregg's hardware store, 107 North Brand boulevard.

Margaret Coates Group—The Margaret Lock Coates group of the W. H. M. S. of the First Methodist church will meet at the church Thursday at 12 o'clock.

Mrs. Margaret Lock Coates, president of Southern California conference, will be their guest and will speak at the meeitng of the Ladies' society in the afternoon.

All interested in missionary work are invited.

Near East Worker

MRS. HAROLD G. HAHN

As Miss Mabel Farrington of El Monte, Calif., she was until recently a Near-East Relief worker at Erivan, Armenia. Mrs. Hahn was a speaker at Glendale churches last Sunday and in the public schools on Monday in the interests of the local campaign for relief funds and used clothing.

50,000 ORPHANS ARE IMPERILLED

National Headquarters of N. E. R. Finds Contributions Decreasing

Advices from national headquarters of Near-East Relief that decreasing contributions of relief supplies will shortly make it necessary to turn 50,000 orphans away from American rescue stations to perish in the sealed-in cities of Trans-Causasia, received this week, has caused the Glendale relief committee to appeal to citizens both young and old for their fullest possible help in making the present appeal for funds and tomorrow's "bundle day" a complete success.

"Of the Christian children who are dependent upon America for their lives, Glendale's quota is 200," says Rev. R. W. Mottern, 211 North Adams street, telephone 1513-W. "There is no government appropriation for these children. Their fate lies wholly in the hands of generous, child-loving Glendale people."

Cash gifts with which to purchase California foodstuffs for forwarding on the steamer Pennsylvania are being received by E. E. Osgood, treasurer N. E. R., First National bank.

For "bundle day" tomorrow, the committee's final request to householders, whether in apartments or homes, is to search closets and make up bundles of used clothing and shoes, tie them securely, and either deliver them personally to school yards or have school children take the bundles to school tomorrow, Thursday.

Members of the P.-T. A. of each school will receive bundles at schools and care for clothing tomorrow until trucks arrive to haul the donations to Near-East Relief warehouse at 5930 South Moneta avenue, Los Angeles, according to plans of Mrs. Stephen Packer, of the P.-T. A. general committee.

Following an address by Miss Irene Eldred, Near-East Relief worker, at the high school yesterday afternoon, 1500 high school students enlisted in support of "bundle day," and under the direction of Principal Geo. U. Moyse last night distributed more than 2000 shipping tags and appeals for clothing and shoes. The grammar schools had already distributed 4000 of the appeals.

"The main thing," says the committee, "is to do up your bundle now and get it to your nearest school building tomorrow, Thursday. Put your name and address on the tag given you; if by any chance you have not received a tag, write your name on the outside of the bundle."

For information call 1513-W.

Several donated automobiles with drivers for "bundle day" workers' use tomorrow, are solicited by the committee.

ACACIA SET-BACK LINE CORRECTED

An error appeared in the story descriptive of the permit that was granted by the council Monday night for the changing of the set-back line from 25 to 18 feet to H. C. Le Gross on his property at the corner of Acacia and Virginia avenue. The article stated that the permit for the duplex to be placed 8 feet back from the front property line.

FIERY, ITCHY SKIN QUICKLY SOOTHED WITH SULPHUR

Mentho-Sulphur, a pleasant cream, will soothe and heal skin that is irritated or broken out with eczema; that is covered with ugly rash or pimples, or is rough or dry. Nothing subdues fiery skin eruptions so quickly, says a noted skin specialist.

The moment this sulphur preparation is applied the itching stops and after two or three applications, the eczema is gone and the skin is delightfully clear and smooth. Sulphur is so precious as a skin remedy because it destroys the parasites that cause the burning, itching or disfigurement. Mentho-Sulphur always heals eczema right up.

A small jar of Mentho-Sulphur may be had at any good drug store. —Adv.

Mail Want Ad

Write your advertisement in the blank spaces below, just as you want it to appear in the Want Ad columns. Tell your story completely and convincingly if you want to accomplish quick results. Three days' insertion produces more replies than one; a week's insertion is best of all.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING RATES
First Insertion—Minimum charge 30 cents, including four lines, counting five words to the line. Additional lines 5 cents per line.
Subsequent Consecutive Insertions—5 cents per line.
Minimum charge for each subsequent insertion, 15 cents.

When do you want your advertisement published? .....
Do you want a "blind" or keyed address used? Amount enclosed .....

Glendale Daily Press Want Ads are accepted by telephone or may be brought to our office. This blank is for the benefit of the person who finds it more convenient to fill his "Want" by mail.

How to Figure Your Want Ad
Count five average words to each line. The address at the foot of your Want Ad is counted also. Each number, initial, etc., counts as one word. For example, the name, "John C. Smith," is three words; "212 W. Main Street" is four words; "160 acres, 3 miles from railroad, $300 per acre," is nine words, etc. In case you want a keyed or "blind" address used instead, indicate so above. The "blind" address comprises five words and will be counted as part of your advertisement.

BIDS FOR SCHOOLS SUPPLY ACCEPTED

At the meeting of the board of education held Tuesday night at Intermediate school, Superintendent White was instructed in regard to a number of matters. He was asked to call up Peter Ferry to ascertain when the house purchased by him would be removed from the campus of the Glendale avenue intermediate so that building operations could begin.

He was instructed to investigate and report as to what place or places would be available for the holding of graduation exercises.

He was also asked to return all checks and bidders' bonds in connection with the Glendale avenue intermediate school except the lowest and next to the lowest.

He was to request Architect Lindsay to prepare plans for enlarging the boys' lavatory at Acacia avenue school; to order the installation of electric and gas connections at Grand View school.

President Hibben and Superintendent White were appointed a committee to handle the following propositions: The selection of a second repair man for school work; to take charge of the repair of intermediate and Central avenue school furnaces.

The board accepted the bid of the Frank Davidson company of $6605, for installing a complete steam heating plant at the Glendale avenue intermediate with a deduction of $700 for the use of gas burners instead of oil and a deduction of $680 for omitting the heating equipment for the auditorium.

The board also accepted the bid of the Newebrry Electric company of $1867 for the wiring of the building and the bid of the Newton Electric company of $375 for electric fixtures.

Superintendent White reported that he had signed a waiver in the condemnation proceedings in connection with the Edwards property adjacent to the Acacia school campus.

TUJUNGA T. N. T. CLUB TO GIVE BIG DANCE

April 28 Is Date Set for Elaborate Social Event

TUJUNGA, April 5.—At the regular meeting of the T. N. T. club, held last night in the basement of the Community church, it was decided to give a dance on Friday, April 28, in Legion hall. It is planned to make this affair one of the most enjoyable social events of the season, and elaborate plans are being made by the club to insure its success. A committee composed of Don Wieman, Carroll Parcher, Joe McKee, Howard Rich and Bob Smellie was appointed to take entire charge of the dance, which is to be an invitation affair.

A new rule was passed and incorporated in the by-laws of the club, providing that any member absent from three consecutive meetings without a valid excuse be dropped from the membership roll. Cards were ordered mailed to all members notifying them of the new ruling which takes effect at the next meeting, to be held on April 18. Bids were also ordered for printed cards to be mailed to members before each meeting, notifying them of the next date.

The treasurer's report showed a good balance and it is expected that work will start soon on the proposed club building.

Mass Meeting on Thursday

On Thursday the second mass meeting called by the chamber of commerce to discuss the proposed increase in water rates will be held. A meeting held on Tuesday of last week heard arguments on both sides and appointed a committee to collect funds to be used in combating the proposed increase at the hearing before the railroad commission on April 24, at Tujunga.

A new angle to the affair has been presented by the demand of the owners of the Wright & Rouke tract, located on the highway at the foot of Pine street, to have service extended to their land. The tract consists of 31 acres and the water company claims that its present equipment is not adequate to supply the water needed without danger of a shortage in the district already served by the 1900 foot reservoir.

It is also pointed out that the granting of service would form a dangerous precedent for the future, as all other tracts opened would have the same right to demand an increase, thus causing a severe shortage in the available supply.

This question is to come up at the commission's hearing and will increase the interest in the event.

NEW DEPARTMENT STORE OPENING SCHEDULED

The new Pendroy Department store will swing back its doors in the completed building on or about May 1.

Buyers of the company are now scouring the east for a careful scrutiny of goods to be offered to the Glendale and surrounding district.

These goods, once placed on sale, are to establish the character of the new business here so far as its merchandise can function.

The store will not be opened, however, unless the full line of introductory merchandise arrives and is made ready for proper display. Much depends upon stock organization in an initial presentation.

Mrs. E. C. Pendroy, buyer for the ready to wear and children's goods, left Saturday for New York to finish up her purchases for these departments.

D. H. Couse, silk and dress goods buyer, also left for New York last week to purchase the remainder of piece goods stocks for the new store.

Later announcements will be made as to the assembling of stocks in Glendale's first big department store progresses.

HUMAN HEARTS TO SHOW AT RIALTO

No word picture, regardless of how skillfully painted, can begin to convey to the reader the beautiful, humanly impulses which gives to "Human Hearts" that something which few plays or stories possess, and which will be presented in all its force at the Tent Theatre tonight.

It is more than a quarter of a century since the present older generation found thrills and happiness in the then matchless success, and while hundreds of plays and productions have come into being since, few, if any, hold the same general appeal.

The cast tonight is unusually large and introduces again the clever child artist, Doris Phillips, whose charms will not be easily erased from memory.

Ray Delano Clifton, Dolly Dix, Donald Stuart, Ted Ullmark, Rose Willard, Dorathy Summers, Warren Millais, Richard Hyland, Benjamin Dix, Maurice Chick and little Miss Phillips, well known professionally to every theatre fan, make a combination hard to beat.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

JAMES W. FOLEY

A SCHOOLROOM TRAGEDY

Sometimes when you forget the piece you had
To speak in school the world seems awful sad,
And all you do is twist your button hole
And awful misery is in your soul
Because the more you think of it the more
You cannot recollect; and o'er and o'er
You wish you were a thousand miles away
Deep in the woods where you could always stay,
Or else you wish there's some place that you knew
The ground would open up and swallow you.

Then you look all around you and you see
Your parents sharing all your misery,
And wishing they could start you up again
But all in vain; and after while, why then
The teacher comes and takes you and she leads
You off the rostrum and her heart just bleeds
To think of how you suffered; and as quick
As you are off again it makes you sick
Because it all comes back to you as straight
As it can be but then it is too late.

And when the speaking's over and the guests
Surround you all with jokes and merry jests,
You stay away because you cannot bear
To have them sympathizing with you there
When everybody's happy; and you groan
In silent grief and want to be alone
And never see a human face again.
But after while your mother comes and then
She comforts you and says she does not care,
And then your grief seems easier to bear.

PURELY PERSONAL

Mrs. Harry Ryan of 332 West Acacia avenue was the guest Tuesday night of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nichols of Long Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dunlop of Hollywood spent Tuesday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. M. Gannon of 318 West Colorado street.

R. H. Frankel, who has been a guest in the home of Victor Daniels on West Colorado for several months, is leaving today for his home in New York city.

Miss Breta Friedborg of Los Angeles was a guest of Glendale friends on Monday night.

Nels Johnson and John Valerius motored to Beverly speedway Sunday where they enjoyed the races, along with several hundred other Glendale speed fans.

Mrs. Martha Dunn has recently moved from 529 Chester street to 336-A North Orange street.

"Brick" Dodsworth, one of the most trusty and valiant of Glendale firemen, was observed at the races Sunday with a new gray hat on.

Wm. Holton of Newark, N. J., arrived this week and is the guest of the Nussbaums. Mr. Holton is so well pleased with Glendale that he may locate here.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wells, who have been the house guests for the past two months of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Card, 319 Patterson avenue, have taken a furnished home at 637 North Maryland avenue.

Miss Eleanor Collins of Los Angeles, formerly of Glendale, who recently went east with her cousin, Mrs. Bunnell, returned home Tuesday after spending an enjoyable month visiting in New York, Connecticut and New Jersey.

Mrs. Emory Yundt of Pomona spent Tuesday at the home of Mrs. A. R. Eastman, 709 North Louise street.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Bagg of 347 West Acacia avenue, who have been spending several days with Mrs. Bagg's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Weeks at Long Beach, returned this morning. The Weeks expect to move to San Diego in the near future.

Walter Kermott of Ladysmith, Wis., who has been visiting his brother, Dr. E. P. Kermott of 416 North Jackson street for several months, has returned to his home. Before going he purchased a home in Uplands, and will return in the near future. Mrs. Rosa Ross of Los Angeles was also a Sunday visitor with Dr. and Mrs. Kermott.

R. W. Miles, one of the proprietors of the Army and Navy store, has been very sick since last Friday. He overworked in arranging for the opening of the store in its new quarters, being compelled to work day and night for more than two weeks, and his partner says did the work of three men during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Greenlaw and daughter, Mrs. Paul Mertens of St. Louis, arrived in Glendale Tuesday evening, where they expect to make their home. They will be the house guests for the time being of their daughter, Mrs. Edith Elrod of 1651 Gardena avenue. Mrs. Elrod stated that she and her sister had been trying for the past eight years to get their parents to come to Glendale to live and finally succeeded. Mr. and Mrs. Greenlaw have two other children also living in Glendale. They are Mrs. L. L. Swan of West Maple avenue and R. N. Greenlaw of Geneva street.

That Anthrax Peril

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.

(Copyright, 1922, by The Associated Newspapers.)

Of special significance to all men who shave is a report by two New York physicians, Drs. Douglas Symmers and D. W. Cady, published in the Journal of the American Medical Association. This report shows conclusively that users of cheap horsehair shaving brushes still run the risk of contracting the deadly disease known as anthrax.

As narrated by them, Drs. Symmers and Cady, who are connected with Bellevue hospital, were prompted to make a bacteriological study of shaving brushes because of the experience of a young man recently a patient in Bellevue.

When first seen at the hospital this young man had a badly swollen chin, the swelling extending around an ugly, brownish-colored pustule. This, it appeared, had developed following the use of a new shaving brush a week previously. The brush was of the horsehair variety, and bacteriologic examinataion revealed the presence in it of several kinds of disease germs, including some germs of an anthrax-like appearance.

That these actually were anthrax bacilli was soon demonstrated. A culture made from them being injected into the skin of a guinea pig, the pig died within less than two days. Necropsy showed changes in its organism typical of the destructive action of anthrax germs, and large colonies of these germs were grown from cultures of the guinea pig's blood.

Taking a hint from these findings, Drs. Symmers and Cady proceeded to purchase, from storekeepers and street peddlers, 41 horsehair shaving brushes costing from 10 to 75 cents each. All were subjected to laboratory testings, with this result:

"Virulent anthrax bacilli were isolated in three instances, or 7.3 per cent. In 32 brushes, or 78 per cent, bacilli were grown that presented features closely resembling those of the anthrax bacillus, but guinea-pig inoculation was attended by uniformly negative results. From the remaining six brushes no suspicious colonies developed."

Quite evidently, despite the repeated warnings of public health authorities, manufacturers of horsehair shaving brushes by no means universally comply with the requirement to disinfect thoroughly the bristles used by them.

It may be, of course, that anthrax bacilli are so resistant that disinfection methods sufficing to kill them would render horsehair bristles unfit for use in the manufacture of shaving brushes. In which case either the making of horsehair brushes should be absolutely forbidden—as it has been in New York since the first of the year—or, there should be bacteriologic examination of every batch of horsehair bristles intended for brushes, and destruction of all batches in which any anthrax germs are found.

Meanwhile all users of shaving brushes should, in self-defense, refrain from buying horsehair brushes.

Other brushes are more expensive, so far as monetary cost is concerned. But most decidedly, this consideration should not outweigh in buyers' minds the risk that may be involved in use of a horsehair brush made under the present conditions revealed through the researches made by Drs. Symmers and Cady.

PLAN FOR CITIZENS TRAINING CAMPS ANNOUNCED

Two to Be Held in State With Accommodations for 960 Students

Plans are now being completed throughout the entire United States for the establishment of Citizens' Military Training Camps for the instruction of qualified civilians and enlisted men of the Regular Army, National Guard and the Organized Reserves. Similar Camps were held last year and they met with such success that it has been decided to hold them in every section of the country each year.

These camps bring together young men of the highest type from every part of the state and place them upon a common basis of equality under the most favorable conditions of out-door life. No more profitable vacation can be spent by a young man than at one of these camps where, at practically no expense to himself, he can learn the rudiments of military art and fit himself for a commission in the services of his country should the necessity arise.

Two camps will be held in California; one at the Presidio of San Francisco, with accommodations for 960 students, with Red, White and Blue courses for Infantry, Cavalry, Field Artillery,, Air Service, Engineers and Signal Corps, and one at Fort Scott, California, with accommodations for 40 students, with White and Blue courses for Red course. The age limit is from Both camps will open on the 6th of July and close on the 4th of August, 1922.

Three separate courses—Red, White and Blue—are to be given at the Presidio camp.

The Red course includes instruction in the fundamentals of military training. Those who have had no experience in military training are eligible for this course. The age limit is from 17 to 25 years.

The White course provides instruction in more advanced military subjects than the Red course and is intended to qualify students to become non-commissioned officers in the organized reserves. Students taking this course will, ordinarily, be selected from the enlisted members of the National Guard and the Organized Reserves or from qualified civilians who have had some prior military service equivalent to that had in the Red course. The age limie is from 18 to 26 years.

The Blue course provides more advanced instruction than the White course and will be composed of those candidates who have had instruction equivalent to that given in the White course. Ordinarily, warrant officers, and selected noncommissioned officers of the regular army, national guard and the organized reserves and qualified civilians who have had considerable previous training will be authorized to take this course. The age lyimit is from 19 to 27 years.

Applicants who have had prior military training in the regular army, national guard or organized reserves and especially veterans of the world war may be accepted for any of the three courses if not over 35 years of age.

No obligation for future military service is incurred by anyone attending these camps. They are held for the purpose of stimulating patriotism and Americanism. Through expert physical direction, athletic coaching and military training it is aimed to benefit young men individually and at the same time, make them realize their obligation to their country.

Information regarding physical requirements, courses of instruction, etc., will be furnished promptly upon request by the chief of staff, 91st division, Presidio of San Francisco, or by Major Mark L. Gerstle, vice-president of the Citizens' Training Camp Association, whose offices are in the Alaska Commercial building, San Francisco.

All applications for authority to attend these California camps should be addressed as follows:

Chief of Staff, 91st Division,
Presidio of San Francisco,
C. M. T. C., California.

Candidates should get their applications in immediately as priority will be given candidates in the order in which the application is received.

First: That

from the southerly line of Broadway to the northerly curb line of Colorado Street, including all intersections of streets or alleys, be resurfaced in accordance with Plan No. 496, Profile No. 178, and Specifications for said work adopted by the Council of the City of Glendale and known as Specifications No. 43.

Second: That a four (4) inch Class "B" cast iron water pipe be laid in Jackson Street along a line seventeen (17) feet easterly of the westerly line of Jackson Street, said pipe to extend from a line fifty-eight (58) feet northerly from and parallel to the southerly line of Broadway southerly to a line sixty-one (61) feet southerly from and parallel to the northerly line of Colorado Street, together with all connections, valves, fire hydrants and appurtenances, all as shown on Plan No. 496-W, Plan No. 439, Plan No. 448, and Profile No. 178; said pipe and appurtenances to be used for fire protection and the distribution of the municipal water supply of the City of Glendale. Said pipe shall be laid in accordance with said Plans and Profile and between the points on the lines and grades and at the elevations designated thereon, and said pipe connections, valves, fire hydrants and appurtenances shall be constructed in accordance with the Plans therefor, designated as Plan No. 496-W, Plan No. 439 and Plan No. 448, and in accordance with Specifications therefor, adopted by the Council of the City of Glendale and designated as Specifications No. 42, for furnishing and laying cast iron water pipe in the City of Glendale.

Third: That galvanized iron service pipes of the sizes and at the locations shown on Plan No. 496-W be laid in said Jackson Street from said pipe mentioned in paragraph second hereof, to a line drawn parallel and approximately twelve (12) inches easterly of the easterly curb line of Jackson Street and to a line drawn parallel to and approximately twelve (12) inches westerly of the westerly curb line of Jackson Street. Said service pipes shall be laid in further accordance with said Specifications No. 42.

That said contemplated work or improvement in the opinion of said Council is of more than local or ordinary public benefit and will affect and benefit the lands and district hereinafter described, and said Council hereby declares that the district in said City of Glendale benefitted by said work or improvement and to be assessed to pay the costs and expenses thereof is all that portion of said City included within the following exterior boundary lines, to-wit:

Beginning at a point in the northerly line of Broadway where said northerly line is intersected by the northerly prolongation of the easterly line of that alley lying in Block 23, Town of Glendale, as per map recorded in Book 21, Page 96, Miscellaneous Records of Los Angeles County, California; thence easterly along the northerly line of Broadway to an intersection with the northerly prolongation of the westerly line of that alley lying in Block 22 of said Town of Glendale; thence southerly along the northerly prolongation of the westerly line of that alley in said Block 22, and along the westerly line of said alley and along the westerly line of the first alley east of Jackson Street in Block 49, of said Town of Glendale to the southeasterly corner of Lot 12 of said Block 49; thence southerly in a direct line to the most northerly corner of Lot 21 of said Block 49; thence southeasterly along the northeasterly line of said Lot 21 to the westerly line of Glendale Avenue; thence southerly along the westerly line of Glendale Avenue to the southerly line of Colorado Street; thence westerly along the southerly line of Colorado Street to an intersection with the southerly prolongation of the easterly line of that alley lying in Block 50 of said Town of Glendale; thence northerly along the southerly prolongation of the easterly line of that alley in said Block 50 and along the easterly line of said alley and along the easterly line of that alley lying in the aforesaid Block 23 and along the northerly prolongation of the easterly line of that alley lying in said Block 23 to the point of beginning, excepting therefrom any portion of any public street or alley which may be included in the above described district. Reference is hereby made to Map 496-A, approved by the City Council, in which the assessment district referred to is shown within red colored border lines.

That pursuant to the Act of the Legislature of the State of California, approved February 27, 1893, and the Acts amendatory thereto, Serial bonds bearing interest at the rate of 7 per cent per annum shall be issued to represent assessments of Twenty-five ($25.00) Dollars or over for the costs of said work or improvement; said serial bonds shall extend over a period ending nine (9) years from and after the second day of January next succeeding the date of said bonds, and an even annual proportion of the principal sum thereof shall be payable by coupon on the second day of January every year after their date until the whole is paid; and the interest shall be payable semi-annually by coupon on the second days of January and July, respectively, of each year, at the rate of 7 per cent per annum on all sums unpaid, until the whole of said principal and interest is paid.

The City Engineer is directed to make a diagram of the property affected or benefitted by the proposed work or improvement as described herein, and to be assessed to pay the cost and expense thereof. Such diagram shall show each separate lot, piece or parcel of land, the area in square feet in each of said lots, pieces or parcels of land, the relative location of the same to the work proposed to be done, all within the limits of the assessment district, and such other matters as are required by law.

All Maps, Cross-sections, Plans and Profiles referred to herein are on file in the office of the City Engineer of said City. All Specifications referred to herein are on file in the office of the City Clerk of said City. Said Maps, Plans, Cross-sections, Profiles and Specifications are hereby referred to for a more particular description of said work and made a part hereof.

The district to be assessed to pay the costs and expenses of said work and improvement is described in Resolution of Intention No. 1437, to which said Resolution reference is hereby made for further particulars of said work.
